A HANGING AT ABBEVILLE

Richard Washington Executed for the Murder of Miss Bagwell.

Abbeville, S. C., March 27 .- (Special.)-Richard Washington was executed here in the jail this morning. The drop fell at 10:4) o'clock and the attending physician pronounced him dead twelve minutes later. The crime for which Richard Washington suffered the extreme penalty of the law was one of peculiar atrocity. Last November Miss Narcissa Bagwell, a young white woman, living near Hodges, in this county, employed Richard Washington to carry her trunk to Hodges, intending to go there herself later in the day and take the train for some point in Ficrida. For some eason, which has never been explained, she did not go to Hodges that day.

According to a confession made by Washington yesterday, he met her near Mrs. Whitley's house on Thursday evening, the day she was to go off, and persuaded her to go up to an untenanted house on Mr. McNinch's place, where he remained with her until after midnight. He says they got cold there and went out in the woods and made up a fire. He says she wanted him to go to Florida with her, and that le killed her to get rid of her. He says he shot her in the back of the head with his pistol, robbed her pocket of what money she had, and then carried the body to a house near by, set fire to it and burned the body. The charred remains were found the next day.

At the trial he swore that John Mitchell was the man that did the killing, but that he was present. John Mitchell was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to imprisonment for life in the state penitentiary, mainly upon Washing, ton's testimony. He said yesterday that Mitchell is entirely innocent of the crime, and that he alone is responsible for it; that the reason he said Mitchell did it was to make it lighter on himself. Mitchell has appealed to the supreme court and if that court does not grant him a new trial he will apply to the governor for a par-

Litral Bacon's Suicide at Kingston, Tenn. Knoxville, Tenn., March 27.—(Special.)— Litral Bacon, who had been a prominent figure in Roane county matters, both business and political, killed himself at King ston today. He chose a method so terrible and unusual that the entire community was shocked.

During the progress of the Himes murder trial, Bacon was a leading witness. His testimony was of radical importance and the attorneys on one side found it necessary to get rid of its effects by an indictment for perjury. The charge caused Bacon to suffer mentally until he became deranged. Today he went into the yard, secured a stick of dynamite that had been bought for blasting purposes, quietly laid down on it and lit the fuse. A terrible explosion followed. The horror stricken neighbors rushed out to find that the man had been blown into a hundred pieces. His body was literally thrown to the four winds. He left no explanation of his act. was shocked.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 27.—(Special.)
Sheriff Good, of Scott county, in this state, today arrested nine citizens of the county charged with being parties to the lynching of John Murphy, who was taken from the Huntsville jail and hanged a few days ago. The parties arrested are among the well-known citizens of the section where Bowlin, for whose murder Murphy was lynched, resiled, and at least four of them have been identified as being among the lynchers. It is certain now, owing to the prominence of the man lynched, that the members of the mob will be punished.

Massachusetts Republicans Declare for Thomas B. Reed.

RESOLVED AGAINST SILVER Convention Urged That the Single

FREE COINAGE IS TOO DEMOCRATIC

Redemption of All Coin Notes in Gold Is Demanded by Delegates to the Massachusetts Convention.

Boston, March 27.-The republican state convention met here at 10:15 a. m., dispatched its business in a single session and adjourned without formality. The last business previous to adjournment was the for mal placing in the field as New England's candidate for the presidency of Thomas B. Reed. This was done by Curtis Guild, Jr. All the preceding speeches had eulogized Reed and his name at all times was received with great enthusiasm. The delegates and alternates-at-large to the national convention were chosen by acclamation. The delegates are Henry Cabot Lodge, of

E. S. Draper, of Hopedale, and Curtis Build, Jr., of Boston, unanimously elected y acclamation. Alternates were R. H. Boutwell, of Belmont; L. C. Southard, of Easton; R. F. Hawkins, of Springfield, and S. E. Courtney, of Boston.

Nahant: W. Murray Crane, of Dalton; Hon.

The following are the tariff and financial sections of the platform:

"We believe that the government should have an ample revenue with a sufficient surplus over ordinary expenditures to pro-vide for coest defenses, and the steady uilding up of the navy, and for the con stant reduction of the public debt. We believe that the present tariff with its low-ered rates and its destructive and dishonest system of undervaluations should be re-laced by one framed on protective principles and arranged to given an ample proection to American wages and American industry and to restore the reciprocity poli-cy of James G. Blaine. "We have always given protection to our shipbuilders. In late years we have neg-lected to protect cur ship owners. We be-lieve that the time has come to return to the policy of Washington and Hamilton, which, by discriminating duties in favor of American bottoms, secured 90 per cent of our carrying trade to American ships and which, if now restored, would again revive our shipping, and cause American freights to be paid to Americans. "We regard the silver agitation as hurt-ful to business and destructive of confiful to business and destructive of confi-dence, and, as has recently been shown, hostile to all tariff legislation designed to give protection to our industries and reveue to our treasury.

"We are entirely opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and to any condition but the existing gold standard, except by international agreement. Each dollar must be kept as good as every other dollar. The credit of the United States must be maintained at the highest point, so that it cannot be questioned anywhere. either at home or abroad. Every promise must be rigidly kept and every obligation redeemable in coin must be paid in gold. We are opposed to the unsound and dan-gerous system of state banks; we support the national banking system and believe it should be so amended as to give i room for expansion and opportunity to meet the demands of the growing business and population of the country.'

Other planks declare for restricted immigration; no public money for sectarian schools and entire separation of church and state; for the Monroe doctrine; sympathy with the Cubans. The concluding paragraph is as follows:

"Massachusetts republicans have never undertaken to pledge or bind their delegates to a national convention. We do not intend to do so now. But we think it fitting to declare our decided preference among the candidates for the republican nomination as president, and we urge all our delegates to give their earnest and united sunport to a fearless leader, tried in many conflicts, a man of national reputation, of unblemished character, unswerving republicanism and great abilities—the Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed. of Maine." Knoxville's McKinley Club.

TEXAS IS TREMBLING.

Fusion Against the Democrats Is Probable This Year.

Austin, Tex., March 27.-There is talk pere of a political move, which, if success ful, will probably wheel Texas into the republican presidential list of states this

An effort is to be made to have the republicans and populists fuse, the republicans to support the populist ticket for all state officers upon condition that the republican electors are placed on the populist ballots. The importance of such a combination if accomplished can be seen rom the follodiwng figures:

The vote of the state two years ago stood: Culberson, democrat, 207,167; Nugent, populist, 152,731; Makemson, republican, 54,520; Schlitz, lily white republican, 5,025. These figures show that the opposition to demoeracy two years ago had a majority of over 5.000. The defections since then have greatly increased the number.

The fusion movement was put on foot at Dallas two weeks ago by Edward Green, president of the Midland Tailroad; Judge W. K. Makemson, and other prominent republicans and populists. The populists say that the fusion will undoubtedly be made.

GOLDBUGS WILL BOLT.

Single Standard Men Will Leave the . Democratic Party.

Dallas, Tex., March 27.-A meeting of sound money democrats was held here today in which about 200 prominent politicians took part. They practically deternined to bolt the party if a free silver platform is adopted by the state convention, which action appears to be a foregone conclusion. The meeting passed resolutions favoring the calling of a state convention of sound money democrats to consider the situation. Chairman Sudley, of the state executive committee, was bitterly de-nounced. Resolutions declaring in favor of the gold standard were adopted.

Ex-President Hayes and His Sister Estranged for All Life.

St. Louis, Mo., March 27 .- Mrs. E. Marvin, a sister of the late ex-President Hayes, who died Wnednesday at Kirkwood, a suburb, was buried yesterday from the Kirkwood Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Mays presiding. She was a few years the senior of her distinguished brother.

They were separated in early youth Mrs. Marvin was reared and educated by an old southern family, then residing in southern Illinois. When the civil way broke out the brother joined the union army and the strong prejudices of the family with which Mrs. Marvin was living estranged her from him and they never met again.

INDIANA SAFELY DOCKED.

AFTER MANY DAYS THE GAL-LANT SHIP IS IN PLACE.

People of Port Royal Are Happy Over the Event-Docking Was Pur-posely Delayed Several Days.

Port Royal, S. C., March 27 .- At just 7:30 clock this morning on a tide which had been ebbing for a good hour the battleship Indiana steamed gallantly through th calsson of the government dry dock on Paris island with fully fifteen inches to spare between her keel and the blocks. It was a glad day for the people of Port Royal and the satisfaction denicted upon the faces of the officers at the naval station was a sufficient testimonial of the gratification which they experienced in the vindication of the work upon which they have labored so long and so faithfully, and upon which of late some people have attempted to cast aspersions. The ocking this morning was a triumpl the harbor of Port Royal and for every friend of the Paris Island station. The battleship was put on the blocks not only with perfect ease and success, but when the tide had been running out for at least an hour.

The docking might just as well have been done yesterday or the day before. On the 25th the unofficial reckoning of the water showed twenty-seven feet in the dock and yesterday there was as much more. The Indiana draws twenty-four feet and on either of the tides mentioned it is claimed that she could have gone in with an abundance of water to spare. The officers in charge, however, doubtless knew best. They have at all events docked the Indiana most successfully and that has always been the great consideration.

The tide this morning was at its height about 6:20 o'clock and it had been designed to run the vessel into the caisson at that hour. But when the morning came the whole harbor was enveloped in a dense shroud of mist and fog. The battleship was steered cautiously for the dock in the leading strings of four tugs. So much de-lay was occasioned by the fog that it was not until 7 o'clock that she cleared the caisson and floated in the water of the dry dock. According to the official figures there were then twenty-five feet and eight inches of tide. This was about four inches below the normal, but it gave the battleship a good fifteen inches to spare above the blocks.

The pumps were turned on as soon as everything was pronounced to be snug. At first the pumping was purposely done very slowly to give the men at work on the ship's sides a better chance to work. Three hours after the work had started there were still ten feet of water in the

During the forenoon many excursion parties came down to the island from Beaufort and Port Royal and the successsubject of many congratulations and much merry-making. It was not until late in the afternoon that the last bit of water was pumped out of the dock. At 6 o'clock she stood high and dry on the blocks. She rested straight on her keel and she was by actual measurement just five feet ten inches above the floor of the

The officers and the gentlemen officially onnected with the station or the battle-ship are as usual very reticent, but their satisfaction with the result of today's work is expressed in many ways. No one can say, of course, what the official report will be, but it is believed here that it will express the conviction that the dock is in splendid condition and that it is capable of holding any ship in the navy. The officers as yet, however, will say nothing officers as yet, however, will say nothing for publication.

It is an open secret here that the docking could have taken place almost any day during the last week, but it was thought best to wait till the period of the highest spring tides. The officers thought that it was very important to have just as much water as possible for the first trial of the structure.

Dr. Peters Will Resign. Objected to a Provision in the Legislative Appropriation Bill.

THEN TALK WAS LET LOOSE

Senator from New York Charged the

REPUBLICAN SENATORS REPLIED HOTLY

The Matter Referred to the Changing of the Time of New Mexico's Legislature's Meeting.

Washington, March 27 .- The legislative popropriation bill passed the senate today after occupying the attention of that body every day during the present week. It appropriates in round numbers $25,500,000. There was much debate upon it-first on Senator Sherman's motion to strike out all the section relating to the compensation of United States district attorneys. clerks and marshals (putting them on a salary system instead of the present system of fees) and then on Senator Hill's motion to strike out a provision changing the time of meeting of the legislative assembly of New Mexico. Mr. Sherman's motion was defeated-yeas 18, nays 30, so that the bill remains (in that respect) as it passed the house. Mr. Hill's motion developed a political controversy and notice was given by Mr. Gorman, democrat of Maryland, that the discussion could not be cut off, but would assume pretty large dimensions. With the object of avoiding this threatened political debate Mr. Cul-lom, republican, of Illinois, who was in charge of the bill, moved to lay Mr. Hill's on the table, but Mr. Cullom's motion was disagreed to-yeas 21, nays 29 The democratic senators were aided by the votes of the populists and of two re-publicans, Senators Frye and Wolcott. Thereupon Mr. Cullom withdrew all opposition to Mr. Hill's motion and it was agreed to. That practically ended the con sideration of the bill and it was passed without a division. The senate then, at 4:50 o'clock, adjourned until Monday.

Mr. Hill's motion that raised the breez in the senate was to strike out of the paragraph making appropriation for the legislative expenses of the territory of New Mexico, a proviso that the next session of the legislative assembly shall com-mence on the first Monday in May, 1897. Under existing law it meets in December. He said that this was another instance f general legislation; that it was a polit cal amendment "sneaked in" on an appropriation bill, and that it was a small mean, contemptible, silly attempt to gain a political advantage.

Mr. Elkins, republican, of West Virginia, asked Mr. Hill what he meant by the phrase "sneaked in." "I thought," Mr. Hill replied with animation, "that I would stir up the senator from New Mexico-I mean the senator from West Virginia; but it is about the same thing. The territorial legislature will under existing law assemble next De-cember, but this little trick is to postpone the meeting until May, 1897, when there may be a republican president of the United States and a republican governor and territorial officers. and territorial officers."

Mr. Elkins reminded Mr. Hill that he had not answered his question as to what he meant by "aying that the proviso had been "sneaked in." That was a serious said Mr. Hill. "I mean that this proviso has no business here, legitimately or properly. It ought not to be here. That s what I mean by it. It was put in in iolation of the rules of the house. That s what I mean.'

"Is not the house the judge of its own rules and proceedings?" asked Mr. Elkins.
"According to the statement made this morning by the senator from Iowa (Mr. Allison) the house has no fixed rules," re-plied Mr. Hill. "Will the senator from New Mexico or from West Virginia deny that this is a political act?"

"I do deny it," continued Mr. Elkins. "I would like you to explain what you mean by saying that this proviso was 'sneaked

Mr. Hill said if he had not explained it sufficiently, even to the comprehension of the senator from West Virginia, he would not attempt it again.

Mr. Cullom, republican, of Illinois, in charge of the bill, made an explanation of the matter and made a remark as to Mr. Hill getting into a "spasm" about it. Mr. Hill declared that the "spasm" was on the other side of the chamber.

Mr. Carter, republican, of Montana, made an explanation of the proviso and stated why it should be enacted. He referred to an allusion of Mr. Hill's as to the presence in the senate chamber of the delegate from New Mexico and said that the delegate was simply discharging his duty. And he reminded Mr. Hill that a territorial delegate is not a delegate merey to the house of representatives, but to congress and his right to be on the floor of the senate was as strong as his right to be on the floor of the house.

Mr. Hill protested that he found no fault with the delegate from New Mexico for attending to his duties, but he did not understand that it was part of his duty endeavor to place on an appropriation amendments of such a character. In the present instance the senator from Mon-tana (Mr. Carter) had boldly admitted that the amendment was a political one. Elkins Hot After Hill.

After remarks by Senators Daniel and Call, Mr. Elkins suggested that the senator from New York (Mr. Hill) was not an authority on the question of taste after having charged the house of representatives with having "sneaked in" into an appropriation bill and after having charged the senate committee on appropriations with attempting to sneak # through.

Mr. Brice, democrat, of Ohio, asked Mr. Elkins why, if the people of New Mexico wanted the time of meeting of the legislative assembly changed from December to May, he had not (when he was a delegate from that territory) proposed the change. Mr. Elkins's answer was that the ques-tion had never come up, and he added that he would like to hear Mr. Brice's impres sion about the governor of New Mexico.

Mr. Brice said that he would give it with pleasure. The governor of New Mexic had withdrawn from the presence of the had withdrawn from the presence of the committee on territories every statement which he had made in a telegram as to certain bonds of New Mexico having been fraudulently issued. The governor had withdrawn the statement and had said there was no ground for suspicion.

Roast for the Governor. "What did he say about the senator from Chio?" Mr. Elkins asked.

"He had said in his telegram," answered Mr. Brice, "that the senator from Obio had endeavored to make the people of New Mexico pay a bond that was fraudulently issued. He withdrew the statement before the committee on territories and said that there had not only not been any fraudulent issue of bonds, but no ground for be-lieving that there had been. He said that the telegram had been sent through inadvertence. He had not sent it personally ering."

To Strike Out the Proviso.

Mr. Fauikner argued in favor of striking Mr. Fallkner argued in favor of striking out the provise and said that the motive for it was the hope that by next May there would be a republican president of the United States and a republican governor of New Mexico. He was interrupted by a question from Mr. Wolcott as to whether he had prophesied that the next president would be a republican would be a republican.

"No, sir," Mr. Faulkner replied, "I have not lost my balance so far as to make so unwise a prediction. I said that that was the hope and expectation of our republican friends and especially of those who have very vivid imaginations and who dream when they are walking." (Laughter.) In the course of further discussion it was stated by Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, that it was difficult for a populist senator to decide on a question where trickery and fraud were charged and admitted on both sides, but that he would vote with the democrats on this matter. "Political" Contingent. During the argument by Mr. Cockrell, in support of Mr. Hill's motion, Mr. Platt broke in with the remark that unless the republicans elected the next president there would be no polities in the proviso as to the New Mexico legislature, and Mr. Cockrell responded: "The intention is political, necessarily so." A motion to adjourn over until Monday having been made by Mr. Wolcott, resis-tance to it was made by Mr. Cullon, who said that he wished to have the bill passed today or tomorrow. He was notified, how-ever, by Mr. Gorman, that, as a political question had been stated on an appropria tion bill the discussion would have to be continued at much length. The motion to adjourn over was agreed to-yeas, 33; mays, 12.

Mr. Cullom then withdrew his opposition and Mr. Hill's motion to strike out was agreed to and the bill passed. The Evening Session.

The evening session of the house develped a family row among the republicans regarding pension legislation. The first bill on the calendar was that discussed last Friday night, a senate bill granting a pension of $30 a month to Charles E. Jones, a photographer, for injuries resulting from a wound received while taking a picture of Longstreet's fortifications at Suffolk, Va., Longstreet's fortifications at Suffolk, Va., General John Peck, commanding the division to which the photographer's regiment, the Eleventh Pennsylvania cavalry, belonged. Mr. Connolly, republican, of Illinois, antagonized the bill, and in the course of his speech severely criticised the committee on invalid pensions for bringing in bills of this class of pension men who were not enlisted men at all, while hundreds of cases of bona fide soldiers remained in the com

Mr. Pickler, republican, of South Dakota, demanded that the gentleman's words taken down, but withdrew the demand and Mr. Connolly concluded his remarks.

He was followed by Mr. Pickler, who bitterly resented the criticisms of Mr. Connolhis assertions were a base slander upon the invalid pensions committee. The committee had reported but one other bill this session, ly, declaring that it was no he said, to pension a civilian shot while in he said, to pension a civilian shot which the service of the government. The committee had recommended nothing for which it had not the precedents of many congresses past. After amending the bill so as to give the man a pensionable status and leaving to the pension bureau the determination of the amount to be paid, the bill was ation of the amount to be paid, the bill was laid aside with a favorable

Mr. Mahon's Agitation. Subsequently Mr. Mahon, republican, of Pennsylvania, apparently laboring under suppressed feeling said that a statement had been made on the floor which ought not to go out uncontradicted. When the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Connolly) had have that a certain gentleman, whom charged that a certain gentleman, whom he need not name, but whom all the repub-licans recognized as their leader (applause) had interfered to suppress legislation in behalf of the old soldier he spoke without foundation. The speaker of the house, Mr. Mahon asserted, had always given preference in granting recognition to members, to those having bills for the old soldier. The house had spent fifty-five hours this session in considering private pension bills and had passed forty, giving an average of an hour and a half to each bill. If the members wanted to make up the time in making speeches, which was their right, Mr. Mahon conceded, they could do so, but they should not criticise others and charge that candidates for the presidency were using the old soldier as a football.

Mr. Grosvenor, republican, of Ohio, followed in a similar strain, advising Mr. Connolly before he undertook to arraign the republican majority to have more detail to go on than he had at present. The tail to go on than he had at present. The pension committee was all right, Mr. Gros-venor said, but the evil was in the system of legislation and the political power that exists in the pension bureau. As to the speaker of the house, Mr. Grosvenor said he spoke of that which he knew when he said that the old soldiers of the country had no better friend than he. Mr. Connolly, responding, said that he had made no attack upon the speaker; he had been most generously treated by him. What he had said was that with a great republican majority in the house a re-publican quorum falled to appear at these Friday night sessions and that there were too many candidates for the presidency and too many candidates for the presidency and their friends in this congress engaged in promoting their interests to do justice to the soldiers in the matter of pension leg-islation.

The committee rose after having favor-ably acted upon four bills and, at 10:30 o'clock, adjourned until Monday next.

Cashier Barnard Forged Notes To Pay Dividends.

Rome, N. Y., March 27.-The reseiver of the defunct Fort Stanwix bank has dis-covered a number of notes purporting to covered a number of notes purporting to have been made by persons in town, whose names were forged, presumably by the late cashier, Barnard. These forged notes will aggregate many thousand dollars. The inference is that Barnard used the money obtained on these notes in paying the dividends to stockholders, thus keeping up the financial standing of the Fort Stanwix bank.

Senator Bacon on a Tour of Inspection Turner Mentioned for Presidency by Senator Palmer.

Washington, March 27.-(Special.)-Speaker Tom Reed was turned down for the first time in this congress by the house this morning. Reed wants an early adjournment. To succeed in that the appropriation bills must be disposed of

Reed gave orders to his lieutenants this morning that the house should take up the sundry civil appropriation bill. His eaders attempted it, but the house rebelled and by vote took up the private calendar. Reed evinced much anger afterwards, but could do nothing but swear vegeance against McKinley's friends, who he declares inspired the rebellion. This was the first act of the McKinley people to prevent early adjournment. It means that they will throw every obstacle in the way of it and will succeed in keeping congress in session until after the national conventions. Reed refused to allow the Cuban conference report to be taken up today and that has gone over until Monday. Mr. Hill, who has charge of it, is a strong Reed man and conspired with the man from Maine. roughly estimated at $100,000. For some weeks past the peculiar ride put up by Jockeys Chorff, Chevalier and Hinrichs has excited the suspicions of the track officials, but owing to the finesse displayed by the lads, it was difficult to attribute their failure to land winners to any other source save the proverbial streak of 5ad luck. Recently their work has been of such a character, that detectives were engaged to watch the boys. It was soon discovered that the three jockeys named were frequent visitors to the boot factory of Little Pete, and it was then observed that on the day following each visit Pete made a killing at the track. Despite the bad appearance of affairs, the detectives were unable to do anything until Hinrichs became dissatisfied with the share of the plunder doled out to him and disclosed the whole plot to the officials. A full investigation was made and Chorn and Chevalier were today ruled off the track for life and Hinrichs was suspended indefinitely. Little Pete has been barred from attending either the Ingleside or the Bay District tracks, and Owner Dow Wallace, sponsor for Chevaller, has likewise been warned off

The association has also decided not to accept the entries of Tom Grimn and Andy Blakely, on account of the peculiar running of the horse, Fair Faith, on the 25th instant, and Jockey Coady has been indefinitely suspended for the manner in which he rode Cabrillo on the same day. Chorn, who has been in the employ of Barney Schriber, was regarded as one of the best jockeys in the country, having until recently led all others in percentage of winners. Chevaller was also a prom of winners. Chevaller was also a promis-ing youngster until he went astray, but Hinrichs has been under suspicion for a

MANY OF THEM LARGE ONES

'Aggregate of Liabilities Is Over $12, 000,000—Trade Continues To Remain as Dull as Ever.

New York, March 27 .- Bradstreet's to morrow will say: "The week has brought more favorable weather, which tends to create a better feeling. But trade, except at Baltimore, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago and to a moderate degree at other points, remains dull and unsatisfactory. The most encouraging feature is the ad vance in prices of wheat. Indian corn and bessemer pig iron, the latter being based on the higher value placed on lake ores. The check in demand for groceries and provisions at the south is due to southern planters having raised larger food crops this year. Heavy receipts of vegetables at southern markets are followed by re ports of large crops thereof in sight.

"One of the most unpleasant seatures is tions. Total bank clearings continue the recent downward movement and furnish the smallest total for some weeks, $897,000, 000, or 8 per cent less than last week, and only 1 per cent larger than in the fourth week of March, 1895, Wool in some instances has been shaded in price. Trade wool is almost at a standstill, aside from a few sales made for export. Foreign dress woolens are higher, the only mprovement in the outlook for American fabrics. Additional woolen mills have lower, presumably on reports of a pros-pective large crop.

"The heavy movement of ginghams appears to be the outcome of drives and auction sales, the effect of which on other fabrics is depressing. Large accommoda tions of white cotton are shipped and Providence bankers state that cotton manufacturers have sought loans there to help them carry the accumulated stocks. Heavy mercantile failures have a temporary effect on trade and in instances have caused a closer scrutiny of credits and a check on sales and distribution.

"Only 276 business failures are reported in the United States, compared with 300 last week, but an unusually large proportion of them are of comparatively heavy capitalized concerns. The total number of fallures in the week a year ago was 232."

An Increase of Failures. New York, March 27 .- R. G. Dun & Co. will say tomorrow in their weekly review

"The returns of failures are somewhat disappointing. Several of magnitude were mentioned a week ago, and they have swelled the aggregate of defaulted liabilities for three weeks of March to $12,383,614,

"In the goods market the latest indications do not warrant expectations that the mills will continue full production throughout the season, The demand for woolens and dress goods is the best fea-ture of the woolens market. The sales of wool have fallen to less than half an oring last week to only 2,926,750 pounds at the chief markets. A striking feature this week has been a sale of 350,000 pounds of American wool for shipment to England."

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT That Is Why Butler Fled from Opelika,

Thomas Butler, a white man about thirty years of age, was arrested late Thursday night by Officer Tysor on the strength of a telegram received by Chief Connolly from Onelika Ala saving that Butler was want ed there for embezzlement.

A big sensation was spread over the little city of Opelika Thursday night when it became generally known that Thomas Butler, of Butler & Co., had left the city under highly suspicious circumstances.

Some months ago Butler went to Opelika from Boston and opened up a large wholesale and retail business in planos and other musical instruments. He started un ler the name of Thomas Butler & Co. He vas a quiet fellow and not until Thursday night did any one suspect anything wrong with his doings. Thursday night it was reported over town that Butler had left that morning and went to West Point on foot, where he boarded a train for Atlanta, It was also reported that he had embezzled all the firm's money and had left many Opelika men as his creditors. A spe-cial received from Opelika last night states that he also is charged with cheat ing a woman of that town out of a house disappeared Sheriff Gibson telegraphed Chief Connolly from Opelika to watch out for him, as he had boarded an Atlanta train at West Point. Another telegram was received stating that the conductor was received stating that the conductor on the Atlanta and West Point train arriving here at 11:05 p. m. would point Butler out to an officer. Sheriff Gibson's telegram gave a description of Butler. Officer Tysor was dispatched by the chief to arrest Butler on the West Point train, and when the train arrived in Atlanta late Thursday night he boarded it, but the conductor could not point out the man. He stated, however, that a very suspicious looking man had boarded the train at West Point and had taken a Pullman car berth for Charleston. The description given by the conductor of this man tallied very evenly with that received from Sheriff Gibson and the officer went to the berth and arrested Butler. Butler first said his name was Mitchell when questioned by the officer, but after arriving at the police station told Mr. Tysor that his name was Butler.

Are In a Stew.

Montgomery, Ala., March 27 .- (Special.)-Republican politics in this state are in a stew. On the surface it looks like everything has gone to McKinley, but the antis are making a desperate war on the man from Ohio and whn the roll is called in St. Louis it will be found that every delegate from Alabama will have a contestant who will want the seat with all the trimmings which they know exist at a republican national convention. The fight among the Alabama republicans is a clean cut fight of the field against McKinley and the supporters of all the other aspirants for the presidential nomination are in the deal. If they cannot prevent a delegation being instructed for McKinley they can do the next best thing, which is to bolt and set up shop on their own account and send a list of delegates of their way of thinking. Of course, all claim regularity and each side says the other is swindling Up to this time there is only one district in which there is no contest, but one may be worked up in this at any time. This trict is the sixth, where Cooper, a white McKinley man, has as his colleague a negro preacher named Dawson, who would not go to St. Louis unless he went uninstructed. He had the convention in his hands and he went uninstructed.

for congress The Question of Fusion

But while the republican leaders around chasing congressional nominations, there is another question which is worry there is another question which is worrying them no little. It is really the burning question of the campaign and that question is whether to fuse or not? The republican party of Alabama is composed of about 135,000 voters, of whom nine-tenths are negroes and one-tenth whites. The negro looks longingly for the election of a republican president that he may edge his way up to the pie counter and he looks with great distrust upon the movement to fuse, for if there is fusion he feels that the white populists will want to come in for a share of pie and he knows from the past that in, spite of all he could do the one-tenth white portion of the party got nine-tenths of the offices, so he reasons that if there are any more white people dumped in on the republican party he will stand a mighty poor show of getting in sight of the grub stand. On the other hand, the white republicans know that if they refuse to fuse there will be no more white people to divide with and they will play the same old game of short division; while if they fuse the populists will want to be in it and the division will be too long for comfort. The republican convention meets here on the 28th of next month and it looks very much like there will be no break in the record, but that like all the congressional and county conventions, the state convention will snilt.

Colonel Sands recognized as Don Dickinson, and mentioned the fact of Dickinson's

Congressman McMillin saw that there might be a collision and he pulled Dickinson out of the room and I saw no more of him. It all occurred in less than'a minute. There was no mention of President Cleveland or his administration. There was no allusion to politics. It is utterly false that I ever spoke disrespectfully of President Cleveland. Connecting me with a 'poker room' and 'throwing cards into Dickinson's face' is a great outrage, as I never visit such places and have not had a card in my hand during the fifteen years I have been in the senate. been in the senate.

THEY GAVE UP THE MONEY

To Keep from Staying Over Night in Prison.

Augusta, Ga., March 27.—(Special.)—The authorities and residents of the village of Summerville were very much wrough up on reading in The Chroniele yesterday morning the statement of two young New Yorkers stopping at the Bon Air, Messrs Connell and Donohoe, that one night re-cently while walking along above the ar-senal they were held up by three men and made to fork over $5 each. The New Yorkers said further that the three men, two of them white, all had pistols in their hands and the white men ordered the darky to search them. They asked what darky to search them. They asked what they were charged with, but were told that that made no difference, but must give up $5 each, which they did. The young men claimed further that the white men looked as if they had on uniforms and that one wore a badge; further, they say, they learned their assailants were highwaymen from the fact that they were not put to trial nor allowed to tell of the case to the intendant of the village.

say, they learned their assailants were highwaymen from the fact that they were not put to trial nor allowed to teil of the case to the intendant of the village.

Mr. Joseph Ganahl, Jr., acting recorder of the village, says that at court Monday morning Marshal George Heckle reported that on the night before (Sunday night) he had arrested two young men evidently guests of the Bon Air, who were on one of the streets intoxicated and using bad language. They were accompanied by young women. They didn't wish to be locked up, so the officer made each put up $5 for his appearance at court in the morning. Next morning they did not appear as they had agreed and the bail of each was forfeited. It has been discovered that these were the young men, but they had left the city when officers called at the Bon Air today. In The Chronicle in the morning there will be a card published by the officials stating that the young men were in company with hotel servants when arrested.

Colonel W. E. Jones, of the Sixth regiment, met the officers of the regiment and his staff here tonight. At the meeting he signified his intention of sending in his resignation to Governor Atkinson, but the officers made such vigorous protest that he will reconsider. Colonel Jones took the Sixth at a time when it was well night disorganized and by his interest has made it one of the best commands in the state.

Governor Morton having signed the Raines liquor tax bill, that measure is now a law in New York state. It is not an ideal law for the regulation of the liquor traffic, and in fact no law on the subject is, but is certainly a long advance over the old law. It is an attempt to substitute a high tax for a high license system and to permit every one to open a saloon who pays the tax. In these respects it is a departure from the methods in use in most states, and the result will be watched with much interest.

WANTS A RAILROAD

A Wealthy New Yorker Desires One for a Pet.

THINKS THERE IS FUN IN IT

He Is Not Particular as to Size or Locality Just So It Has Rails and Crossties.

Up in New York there is a wealthy man who wants to buy a railroad. He is willing to begin with a short one. He has cupy his idle moments. Ex-Governor Northen has been commit sloned to find a railroad for the capitalist It does not seem to make much difference has rails and a place to start from and a destination. Railroads have been something of a drug on the market for some time and the ex-governor should not have much trouble in picking up a trunk line of from five to fifty miles. There are or from nee to firty mines. Incl. are plenty of them lying around lose. Ex-Governor Northen has an idea that while the capitalist is buying he might as well get something with a possibility as a road without any chance of ever becoming anymay be thoroughly improved.

Speaking of railroads as toys, a veteran manager said yesterday: "Millionaires had better buy a yacht or fast horses than a railroad if they want them for toys. I re member that Cileman went into the Jack sonville, Tampa and Key West road with millions. He bought it for a toy or was road faster than a mint can coin it. It takes a man like Mr. Plant or Mr. Flagler to run a railroad in Florida, though. Rail-road management is a science and the amateur is lost in it.'

Seaboard Changes Schedule.

The Seaboard will change its schedules on Sunday. The early morning train out of Atlanta will be discontinued. There will be two passenger trains departing and two arriving. One will leave here at 11:45 a. m. :10 p. m. (Atlanta time.) These trains make through connections to the north and will do local work as far as Clinton Trains will arrive in Atlanta at 5:20 a. m and 7:45 p. m Watermelon Rates

Railroad Comm'ssioners Evans and Wil-born, of South Carolina, have been to Washington to try to get the rates on watermelons reduced. The state railroad com missions cannot do anything in the way of reducing the rates, because the meions are nearly all shipped to some other state on through bills of lading. The South Caro-lina commissioners went before the interstate commerce commission, but that body has no power to force roads to reduce has no power to force roads to reduce their rates. All the commission can do is to order rates lowered. If the roads decline the commission has to go into the courts, and it is a long and tedious business to compel the roads to lower their charges The roads charge from $80 to $100 a car load on melons out of South Carolina for New York. The shippers want this cut down to from $50 to $70 a ear. The growers say that they will not plant so many melons this year if the rates are not decreased.

Messrs. 'Evans and Wilborn called on Third Vice President Findlay and Traffic Manager Cilp, of the Southern, and asked them to look into the rates and see if they could not voluntarily make a reduction. These officials promised to investigate and they said that they would get returns from eaten up all the profit a reduction will be made. Carolina planters declare that if they do not hear from the roads by April 15th, they will not plant the melons. They are tired making the crop and selling it for just enough to pay freight and some times The interstate commerce commission has promised to go into South Carolina and hold a hearing at Ridge Spring some time

President Pullman says to the Nashville chamber of commerce that he cannot reduce the charges for berths between Nashville and Chicago from $2.50 to $2, although the charge to St. Louis and Cincinnati is only $2 from Nashville. True, the time is about the same, but Mr. Pullman states that the distance is greater by 124 miles to Chicago and he thinks that the St. Louis man would not be content to pay the same as the Chicago man for a short haul. So the sleepers will be the same.

Rome, Ga., March 27 .- (Special.)-Today young Bob Hall succeeded in securing bond for his appearance at the next term of Cherokee county, Alabana, superior court on the charge of killing Sam Garrett.

The laws of the state of Alabama are of such a peculiar nature that he was forced to get security there. This morning the names of John J. Blade, E. L. Rosworth, J. E. Camp and Sheriff J. P. Mc-Connell and Deputy Sheriff J. D. Tarver were added to the bond to satisfy the Alabama signers.

The ravine is traversed by a stream of water which gushes from a bold spring at the head of the guich, and in the bed of that stream the gold was found and Mr. Farley considers it as likely to prove a ragular bonanza.

Reports from there today confirm the information and state that gold in paying quantities has been found right on the surface. There are a number of parties here who own land in that locality and they will go down at once to investigate.

A CLASH IN COLUMBUS

Between the Superintendent and Teach ers in Schools.

Columbus, Ga., March 27.-(Special.)-Quite a sensation was created in school cir cles here yesterday as the result of a clash schools and one of the teachers. It is a well known fact that the relations between Superintendent Wright and a number of the teachers are rather strained and when a day or two ago the superin-tendent gave a certain order, his authority for which being question by some, it was thought that the climax would be reached. Professor L. C. Slade, teacher of the first grade of the high school, was among the Professor L. C. Slade, teacher of the first grade of the high school, was among the number that questioned Superintendent Wright's authority to give the order. Slade was forthwith suspended upon the charge of insubordination. The board of trustees held a secret session this afternoon to consider the matter and from what your correspondent can learn tonight the following facts were elicited, the board exonerating Professor Slade and vesting in the superintendent the authority which the former denied that he had.

A few days ago Professor Homer Whight, superintendent of public schools, ordered the teachers to send him certain data. Professor L. C. Slade, teacher of the first grade of the high school, made the point with the superintendent that the information received was irrelevant and "ultra vires," and stated that while he would obey any order that the superintendent had a right to make, he would not obey any other.

Professor Slade requested the superintendent to show him what right he had to require the bove mentioned data. This request the superintendent refused to grant, saying:

"You will hand this in because I say so." Afterwards he threatened Professor Slade request the superintendent refused to grant, saying:

"You will hand this in because I say so."
Afterwards he threatened Professor Slade with suspension if he did not obey his order. Professor Slade still refusing to comply with the order under the circumstances, the superintendent notified him of his suspension as a teacher of the schools. Professor Slade then appealed the action of the superintendent to the board of trustees, holding that the superintendent had no right to suspend a teacher and denying the charge of insubordination alleged by Superintendent Wright.

Yesterday afternoon the board of trustees met to consider the appeal, Superintendent Wright and Professor Slade both being present to present their respective sides of the case. After a session of over three hours the board took the following action:

It was decided that the superintendent did not have the right to suspend a teacher. Professor Slade was cleared of the charge of insubordination and was reinstated. It was, however, ruled that the data required by the superintendent was relevant and that he had a right to call for it. Also a new regulation was passed giving the superintendent the power to suspend a teacher awaiting the action of the board of trustees. The affair has been the subject of much comment.

LUMBERMEN ORGANIZE.

What They Are Doing at the Cordele

Convention. Cordele, Ga., March 27.—(Special.)—The lumbermen of Georgia have been in session all the afternoon at the Suwanee house and tonight they met again to adopt by-laws and elect officers. Those present represent a large part of the lumber interests of the state. About 75 per cent of the producers have signed an agreement to a permanent organization and there is every prospect that the organization will be a complete success.

The association is formed on the same plan as those of Alabama and Mississippi. Among those present at the meeting today are Martin F. Amorous, of Atlanta; W. B. Stillwell and I. N. Wells, of Savannah; H. H. Tift, of Tifton, S. R. Weston, of Albany, and others representing the entire lumber district of Georgia.

Judge Allen Fort, candidate for congress, will speak at Vienna, in this county, at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, April 4th. He has invited Hon. E. B. Lewis and Mr. O. R. Warren to meet him in a joint debate and if they accept the occasion will be full of interest. Cordele, Ga., March 27 .- (Special.)-The

LANGFORD CONFESSES

THAT HE WAS ONE OF THE MEN WHO ROBBED RAWLS.

Implicates Another Man for Whom the Officers Are Looking-Details of the Robbery.

Waycross, Ga., March 27 .- (Special.)-Men and dogs are still pursuing one of the men who robbed Mr. Rawls, at Schlatterville Wednesday night. The man is also wanted in Wayne county for the killing of a fellow man about a month ago at Odum and Wayne's sheriff is after him. A reward of several hundred dollars is out for him. Horatio Langford, the young Louisianian, who was arrested after having been shot by his pursuers yesterday morning at Ma-hunta, was taken to Schlatterville yesterday morning, where he remained chained by his neck to a door post until this morn-also said that his partner did the killing at Odum last month. The facts of the robbery as obtained tonight from officers are as follows: The sheriff of Wayne county has been after the man who killed the man at Odum for several days and Wednesday morning or Tuesday morning he came very near finding him. He gave a description of the man to some railroad men in the Plant system and told them to look out for the fugitive. Soon afterwards the man and Horatic Langford passed by the railroad employe on their way to Schlatterville. No attempt was made to arrest the men because the evening. He confessed to the robbery and ailroad men were unarmed.

Early that night Mr. Rawls, who had been to Waycross in the morning to col-lect $4,000 insurance for the mother of Wil-bur Beaton, deceased, was in his store and the two men went in and called for some cheese and crackers. Mr. Rawls turned around with his back toward the men and when he raised his head, after getting what they had ordered, the men covered him with two revolvers. He was told to hold up his hands and his life was threatened. Schlatterville is a quiet little country postoffice with one or two small stores and nobody was near the store at the time the robbers arrived. The robbers threw Mr. Rawls down on the floor, then tied his hands and feet together and maltreated him. They dragged him into an ante-room and tied him down with ropes. Then they searched his clothes for money. They found about $50. Mr. Rawls was then locked up in the room and the robbers went back into the storeroom and helped them-selves to what they wanted. Mr. Rawls remained some time in the room before help came. He was badly bruised. Determine men went immediately after the robbers and traced them to Nahunta, where one them-Horatio Langford-was captured.

HAS SHOT IN HIS HEAD.

ACCIDENT TO SUPERINTENDENT McREE, OF ATHENS.

While Hunting with Another Gentleman, He Has a Narrow Escape from Death.

Athens, Ga., March 27 .- (Special.)-Mr. Otis F. McRee, superintendent of the lumber department of the Lyndon Manufacturing Company, is carrying around several dozen birdshot in the back of his head today. He happened to an accident yesterday afternoon that might have proved dangerous if the gun that was discharged had been nearer to him.

He and Captain J. W. Brumby were out hunting near Athens and were approaching a little ditch. They jumped over the ditch and started off in different directions. Just then a bird flew up in front of Captain Brumby and he raised his gun to shoot. The bird flew around him and he turned in the direction it was flying in order to get a good view of it before firing. Just as he pulled the trigger he came into line with Mr. McRee, who was about thirty yards off. The shot struck McRee in the back of the head, but didn't have enough force behind them to inflict a dangerous wound.

McRee bled very profusely and has the appearance of a tattoed man on the back of his neck.

Still Another Quarry. Venable Bros., of Atlanta, are developing the granite industry of this section with a rush. Mention has already been made of the work being done at the Lexington quarries. These enterprising Atlantians have now purchased from Mr. P. Deadwyler the granite interest in a body of land near Oglesby and have a large number of hands Jackson County Mills. Jackson County Mills.

The citizens of Maysville, Ga., will hold a public meeting at their council chamber Monday night in order to get an expression regarding the cotton factory that is to be built there. There is considerable interest felt in this enterprise and it will doubtless meet with success.

The Harmony Grove cotton mills that recently declared a dividend of 18 per cent have ordered a large lot of additional machinery. This machinery has all arrived and most of it is now up and running.

The Telephone Finished.

The Telephone Finished. The telephone line from Maysville to Harmony Grove was finished this morning and the town of Maysville was placed in telephonic communication with many cities in the state. The company that built this line will now-build a line to Pendergrass and to Hoschton.

On with the Building.

The Baptists of this section are turning their spare cash into building channels. In Athens they are soon to have an $18,000 edifice. In Harmony Grove the conference has decided to proceed at once to erect the $10.000 church according to the pians submitted by Architect Hunt, of Chattanooga. Appointed Administrator.

Appointed Administrator.

Mr. John W. Welch was this morning appointed by Judge Herrington temporary administrator of the estate of his father, the late Captain William P. Welch. He at once qualified and will proceed to administer upon the estate, which is a large one. Mr. Welch will not return to Savannah, but will make Athens his home in the future. He will become an able and prosperous lawyer in a few years. Captain Carlton's Campaign. Hon. H. H. Carlton, candidate for congress in this district, has not been able to canvass much since his announcement on account of sickress. For the past ten days he has been confined to his home by a threatened attack of pneumonia. He is about recovered now and will enter into an active canvass of the district just as soon as his health will permit.

A Significant Fact. A significant Fact.

A professor of the university remarked today that the young men of Georgia were staying at home more than ever in securing their collegiate education. Last year there were over twenty Georgians in attendance upon the university of Virginia; this year there are less than four. This is a sign of increased confidence in the state institutions to furnish the best of educational fadilities.

A Generous Donation. Several weeks since the fire department resolved to get up a small gymnasium outfit and the different members agreed to contribute a small sum each month for that purpose. Only $50 was needed, but that was a large sum to the firemen. This morning the Southern Mutual Insurance Company filled out a check for that amount and made the fire laddles a present of it.

Judge Lucas dismissed the warrant against Officer W. D. Kelly, of the police force, yesterday afternoon. The warrant was for assault and battery and had been sworn out by Mr. J. H. Richards, who alleged that Officer Kelly clubbed him without provocation. Judge Lucas held that a threat to shoot the officer's head off, coupled with a movement of the hand in the pants pocket, authorized the officer to club him.

TALK OF THEIR TOWN SHE LOVED ANOTHER First Representative Delegation Sent Mr. H. P. Brown Claims That His Wife Out from Fitzgerald.

Eight Delegates from the New City To Attend the Grand Army of the Republic Encampment.

The first representative delegation sent out from Fitzgerald since the organization of that wonderful colony reached Atlanta yesterday morning to attend the Grand Army of the Republic encampment, which will be in session today.

This delegation was made up of James McDonough, J. H. Dempey, V. P. Dellingham, Eli Culler, W. McCormick, L. Clute, G. W. Whitman and R. H. Hartman. All are enthusiastic over the success o the new town and tell graphic stories of the rapid work done there in transforming a wilderness into a thriving city.

They were seated in the office of ex-Gov ernor Northen yesterday afternoon awaiting the arrival of that gentleman and dis-cussing the growth of the colony during the last few months. "We are satisfied," said Mr. Dempcy, who s the commander of the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at that place. I can say for myself that I never expected to be so much pleased with the place. Eight of us came up to attend the encampment. Hundreds would have come if we had been given the rates by the roads. Our encampment is made up of over a thousand there now of over 9,000." "Yes, and there are more coming Tues day," interrupted Mr. Dellingham. "That's right," continued the commander. "I believe I did hear that there would be week. But I was speaking of the condition of affairs there now. If any one believes that we are not pleased let him come down with us and we will show him a few things. Won't we?" he asked, turning to s companions.

"Yes," said Mr. Culler, "we will show him our seventeen miles of streets all prepared We will call his attention to our colony we will call his attention to our colony bank now going up."

"Built out of brick manufactured right there at us," put in one of his comrades.
"Yes," he continued, "and the foundation made of stone which we found not two miles from us, and which we sent on to Indian real the stated. dianapolis to be tested. One or two brick dianapoins to be tested. One or two brick buildings are already going up. We are building on an average of three substantial dwellings a day. The colonists talked for a long time of Sistance necessary."

The colonists talked for a long time of the success of their undertaking. They will remain in Atlanta until the encampment is dismissed.

DORA FAILED AGAIN.

Nine Times She Has Tried To Commit Suicide. For the ninth time in her career Dora Williams, a well known woman, attempte suicide last night. The last effort was by the morphine route and but for the arrival of the physician of the Grady hospital would have been successful. Last night about 8 o'clock Dora called for a room at the American hotel on South Pryor street and was assigned one on the second floor. She represented that she was from Chattanooga and wanted to be called at an early hour this morning to take the train for that place.

About 12 o'clock last night the officer on that beat was attracted to the hotel by loud talking and upon investigation he found that a woman had attempted suicide.

An ambulance was called and the woman removed to the Grady hospital. She will recover. One of her attempts a short while ago was eating glass, and morphine has been a favorite drug with her on previous occasions.

Will Thomas, Charged with Burglary, Was Given Ten Years Yesterday in the Pen.

The marital bonds of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh P. Brown were broken yesterday in the superior court by a verdict of the jury. which was granted upon the charges preferred in a petition through the attorneys of the young husband.

Love at first sight, a speedy courtship ness is the story told by the plaintiff. Mrs. ness is the story told by the plaintiff. rMs. Brown was formerly Miss Maud Pharr, and though she promised to live the life of a wife for the remainder of her days, she is said to have frankly told her husband that she did not love him and that her heart was in the keeping of another, whom she had loved previous to the marriage with Mr. Brown.

The husband stated yesterday that he even abandoned him and left him alone. He said he had pleaded with her to return, but to no effect, and now that he was certain she had made up her mind to leave him, he thought the best thing to be done was to secure a divorce and break the ties which legally bound her to him.

The retition showed that the young peo-ple married last April, but before the days of the honeymoon had passed, the wife told her husband she was not satisfied with the marriage and could never allow herself to love him. This, he says, was a he had lost. His wife insisted that her she had loved more than she could ever love her husband, and within less than two months after the wedding ceremony had been pronounced the young wife left him, so Mr. Brown alleges.

Mr. Brown further charges that Mrs. Brown came to his place of business on the 1st day of last August and in an angry passion struck him with a cowl children were born as a result of the marof the parties held property.

The jury granted a total divorce and an order of the court was taken in compliance with the terms of the verdict. In the Criminal Court. Twelve cases were disposed of in the criminal superior court before Judge Lump-

Johnson and stealing a coat worth about five dollars. Clay was discharged but ten years were given Thomas for his crime.

Several misdemeanor cases were tried and sentences varying from six to twelve months were meted out by the judge.

Yesterday afternoon Will Bruce was placed on trial for his life. Bruce is charged with the murder of Early Beatty, which was committed on the 4th of last July. The trial was carried on until late in the afternoon, when the court took a recess until this morning. The case will probably be concluded today.

Contraction and the second sec Secretary Smith's Position

Thursday afternoon Secretary Smith's "official organ" printed an article, over the signature of "Democrat." the most interesting portion of which we herewith reproduce for the information of our readers and for purposes of comtages than the editor of The Constitution for studying the currency question from a national standpoint, and has been brought to see the errors which he committed him-self to in his letter to W. L. Peek, Esq., in 1890, is it necessary to declare that he has become a republican? As a matter of fact Mr. Smith does not advocate or recommend to the people of this state any of the finan-cial legislation from the effects of which we are now suffering, suggested or enacted into law by the republicans during the past quarter of a century. What Mr. quarter of a century. What Mr. cratic principles, and the people of Georgia will hear this from his own lips and in no

Ordinarily we should not trouble ourselves to comment on such a statement as the foregoing, but the facts connected with its publication are such as to lift it a little above the contributions that find their way into the newspapers.

In the first place, the matter which we reproduce appears in a conspicuous place on the editorial page of Secretary Smith's own "organ."

In the second place, it is a quasidefense of Secretary Smith.

In the third place, it repudiates in behalf of Secretary Smith the utterances that Secretary Smith made over his own signature in his letter to Colonel W. L Peek, printed in his own newspaper.

In the fourth place, this repudiation of Secretary Smith's views is given a conspicuous position on the editorial page of Secretary Smith's "official organ.

These things taken together give the contribution of "Democrat" an authoritative character that cannot be ignored. The reader is bound to conclude that a publication repudiating the well-known and widely-advertised views of Secretary Smith would not be printed in a conspicuous place in Secretary Smith's "official organ" unless the statements made therein had been submitted to Secretary Smith for his approval.

It may be taken for granted, there fore, that the utterance we have quoted is official and authoritative. In this view of the case—and in this view onlythe publication becomes interesting.

We are officially and authoritatively informed that Secretary Smith "has had more advantages than the editor of The Constitution for studying the currency question from a national standpoint. Now, with all proper humility, we suggest that this point is not well taken Secretary Smith, we take it for granted, is and has been engrossed in the duties of his office, which are said to be laborious and exacting. He has been surrounded with all the pomp and panoply of Washington life. He has been living in an atmosphere of luxury, and has been surrounded by all the paraphernalia that belongs to wealth and to the prosperity of exceptionally fortunate in dividuals. He has been brought in daily contact with the moneyed men of the great financial centers, who are smacking their lips over the huge profits that the increasing purchasing power of money is pouring into their laps, Amid such surroundings and with all the evidences of individual prosperity before his eyes, it is not to be supposed that Secretary Smith can find anything grievous or threatening in the operations of the single gold standard.

Considering all these things, we do not think it is at all true that Secretary Smith has had "more advantages than ltor of The Constitution for studying the currency question from a na-

We have seen, and we see today, facall over the country closing down mining on half time, thousands of

brought to a standstill, the material delopment of the south seriously retarded, railways in the hands of receivers, the support of an army of widows and orphans cut off, industrial establish ments going out of business and loan shops taking their place, business house hanging out the red flag of distress wages cut down and commerce and trade in the depths of depression.

We see all these things and more that we do not care to enumerate. The situation is even worse, taking the country generally, than it was when Secre Smith was vociferously inform ing the people of Georgia that all that was necessary to bring relief to business and prosperity to the country was to unconditionally repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act.

Secretary Smith's official defender says that the secretary "does not advocate or recommend to the people of this state any of the financial legislation from the effects of which we are now suffering, suggested or enacted into law by the republicans during the past quarter of a century."

If Secretary Smith is for "sound money," as he says, he is for the single gold standard, and the gold standard was made possible in this country by the demonetization of silver. This was accomplished by republican legislation "during the past quarter of a century."

The secretary's official defender remarks that "what Mr. Smith does favor is a return to true democratic principles." This is a vague and vaporous assertion, but it is at least suggestive Can it really be true, as is here strongly ninted, that Secretary Smith was as ignorant of true democratic principles when he wrote his letter to Colonel Peek as his champion insists he was of the currency question? He was certainly posing as an apostle of the faith and casting a very large shadow with his cloak and staff.

Does his official defender mean that the secretary, being ignorant of "true democratic principles" at the time he was expounding them, and now, having found them out, desires to return to them? This would indeed be a happy conversion so far as the secretary is concerned, but before a hymn of praise is sung it would be well to discover whether this is what the official defender means.

It may be that Secretary Smith has liscovered that the democratic party has been wrong all the time-that its great leaders in Georgia and in other parts of the country were so ignorant of democratic doctrines that they permitted the cunning republicans to steal and appropriate all the "true democratic principles." Is it a part of the brilliant "return to true democratic principles" to seize and confiscate those which the republicans are now claiming?

As matters now stand, the official de fender has left the secretary's position in a worse befogged condition than it was at first. It is impossible to say with certainty whether the official defender means that the secretary was lately ignorant of true democratic principles and advocates his own return to them, or whether democrats everywhere have been ignorant of true democratic principles and the secretary wants them to "return" to the fold.

And in the midst of our cogitations, s still small voice ups and says: "What difference does it make what the secretary believes?"

England's Attitude Toward Cuba.

Information has been received at Washington to the effect that England will approve rather than oppose any steps which may be taken by the United States looking toward a termination of the present struggle for Cuban independence.

While this statement appears to contradict the published rumors concerning England's attitude on this importan question, it only confirms the reasoning that is based upon the blood and civilization of the English people.

Both England and America belong to the Anglo-Saxon household. The traditions of both countries are the same Both speak the language of Shakespeare and Milton and both trace their lineage back to the same remote ancestors. Though different theories of government have brought about a contrast be tween the two countries, yet, in the character of the established laws by which each of them is governed, there is little or no divergence. Both derive their legal institutions from the same fountain source, while the magna charta is alike the bulwark of both American and English liberty. Being thus united in the bonds of kinship and holding in common the heritage of free institutions, it should not excité the least wonder that England should decide to join hands with the United States in recognizing the independence of Cuba.

The supposition that England would regard such action as this with disapproval doubtless springs from the recent correspondence between the two countries concerning the Monroe doctrine in its application to the Venezue lan question and the somewhat chilly attitude which resulted therefrom. Behind this recent correspondence owever, there are many who entertain the belief, and not without good reason that England has been watching the progress of America for many years with jealous eye. In the young republic she eholds a dangerous rival in the years to come, and the fear is by no means a stranger to her bosom that some day Uncle Sam will get the better of John Bull while the American eagle will spread forth his pinions over the British

This fear, however, is not strong enough to overcome the voice of reason; and, in obedience to the sovereign claims of reason and justice it would not be trange if England stood willing to recognize the independence of Cuba and to join hands with the United States in extending that recognition.

Both countries deplore the enormities of Spanish rule and the tyranny to which Cuba has been subjected for so many years. Both recognize the fact that Cuba can never command that proud eminence in the world's respect to which she is entitled by reason of her splendid yoke of Spanish despotism has been removed and the light of a purer civilization begins to dawn on this downtrodden gem of the Antilles.

No Federal Prison This Year. Petty jealousies have prevented the rection of a federal prison in the south, at least, so far as the present session of ongress is concerned.

The defeat of this measure is to be deplored. Every one recognized the importance of a government prison in this ection of the country, and foreseeing the need of such a prison congress made provision several years ago for its erec-

Notwithstanding this fact, however, which was clearly understood, and notwithstanding the additional fact that every government official in the south onnected with the administration of ederal justice asked that such a prison be erected, in language both urgent and unequivocal, the measure, in spite of all these considerations, has been cast aside.

This was accompanied by men whose motive for so doing was neither plausible nor patriotic. The bill met with the general approval of the members of congress, and yet when the fate of this important measure was decided, on a question of location, the bill was lost in committee, Chairman Cannon casting the deciding vote against it, on a tie vote of the committee.

Congressman Livingston put his shoulders to the wheel and did all in his power to accomplish the desired legislation, but the fate seemed to be against Perhans during the next congress the appropriation for the prison may be secured. Though Atlanta had some aspirations to obtain the prison for this vicinity, she would cheerfully have sacrificed them if by so doing she could have secured the erection of the prison at some convenient point in the south. It was doubtless for the reason that Atlanta stood the best apparent chance of furnishing a site for the location of the prison that opposition was excited in the minds of those who represented rival interests.

Legislation will never be able to accomplish its divine mission until local jealousies have been supplanted by a broad national patriotism.

The Right Kind of Talk.

Secretary Smith's "official organ" no sooner hears the news that Hon. Carter Tate has announced himself as a candidate for re-election to congress from the ninth district than it pounces upon him with the following reference to a recent letter defining his position on the currency question:

We observe that Hon. Carter Tate in his etter accepting the invitation of Mr. Henry Perry to joint discussions in the ninth con nal district says he is an advocate "the bimetallic standard." like to have Mr. Tate explain what he means by that term.

In the letter referred to, Mr. Tate stated very plainly, what he meant by "the bimetallic standard," and whether or not the definition meets the approval of the currency contractionists who would like to defeat him because they cannot control his vote, it will be accept ed as highly satisfactory by an overwhelming majority of the people of the ninth district. In his letter Mr. Tate said:

I am a candidate for the democratic nomination. You state you "favor the maintenance of the present gold standard." I favor ine ancient democratic policy of treatment of both gold and silver at our nints_the hi-metallic standard, the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver without charge for mintage and with out discrimination against either. This policy I have maintained and supported since I have been a member of congress and am now more thoroughly convinced than ever of the correctness of this posi

This is sound democratic doctrine and it is the kind of talk that the people of the ninth district want.

Solitary and Alone in His Animosity. Isolated and alone in the friendless solitude of his sectional defiance, Representative Boutelle, of Maine, impersonates the only discordant note in the patriotic chorus of voices which reently proclaimed the retirement of the bloody shirt.

If the congressman was anxious to secure distinction by this dramatic exhibition of himself, he has gained his object without the gratification that usnally comes from realized ambition.

Perhaps this country has never witnessed such a plain and open declaration of defiance to the avowed will of the majority as that expressed by Congressman Boutelle in his oposition to the measure for removing the disabilities of confederate veterans. Usually such nostile attitudes are associated with some degree of polish and statesmanlike urbanity, and this serves, in a measure, to mitigate the severity of the assault. There was nothing, however, about the manner of Congressman Boutelle which seemed to be in the leas sense apologetic; and the vigorous tone of voice in which he responded to the roll call when his name was reached left no doubt as to the spirit of unfriendly opposition by which his protest

Expressed in other words, that spirit was one of sectional hatred and revenge a spirit born of the fumes of gunpowder and one which preserves in the sanguinary folds of the bloody shirt the contending passions and rivalries of war without a single spark of its justice or its heroism.

Congressman Boutelle may resemble the lone fisherman in his want of companionship, but there is grave doubt as to whether or not he possesses the same placid state of mind as that serene rtist of the book and line.

But the situation has other and mor agreeable features. Though Congress man Boutelle has made himself conspic nous by reason of his opposition to the measure, he is only a mere figment in comparison with the overwhelming odds gainst him, and, what is better still, he epresents no furnace of sectionalism hate, but his own exclusive oven.

The spectacle presented on the floor of congress last Tuesday morning is reassuring to the patriotic hope of the on half time, thousands of climate, her marvelous resources and American people. Never before was the enterprises precked or her beautiful situation, until the iron action of the house more spontaneous and never before was less opposition encountered in the passage of a measure of this kind. Both parties united in giving voice to a broad American sentiment. In a word, the significance of the vote was simply this, that sectional issues had been retired; that the bloody shirt had been torn into a thousand doll rags and that henceforth the political battles of the republic would be fought on national and patriotic lines. In removing the disabilities of the confederate soldier, the congress of the United States not only pays a graceful tribute to one of the most unique figares of modern times, but does homage o American valor.

This act of congress not only retires the blody shirt, but with this banished and condemned piece of merchandise it also retires its sectional champion. Upon the head of Congressman Bouelle the newspapers of the country, regardless of the colors displayed at their mastheads, have emptied the vials of their editorial wrath. In this same connection it may be observed that the generous spirit manifested by congress n the passage of the bill has met with universal sanction and approval.

Bill and His Bill.

The following letter comes to us from he grand old state of Kentucky, where, n spite of the fact that many prominent men have surrendered to the money ower, the spirit of true democracy lives firm and unterrified:

Elkhorn, Franklin County, Ky.-Editor Constitution: I inclose you herewith reference to a bill offered by Hon. W. C. Owens, our member in congress from the seventh district of Kentucky. I have read the thing throughout and can't get any sense out of Will you be kind enough to explain that oill for me? You remember Bill made a speech some time ago against free coinage and against admitting New Mexico as a because its senators would probably be for free coinage. Bill has not been at home for some time and evidently does not know that an overwhelming majority of his constituents are for free coinage and against the infamous methods and treachery that defeated Blackburn. I want to say in conclusion that old Kentucky is for free coinage first, last and all the time. I think Bill needs some medicine. Can'you give him a dose? W. C. BEDFORD.

Bill seems to be a bird, judging from the character of the measure he has introduced. It is "a bill for the free coinage of silver dollars equal in value to gold dollars." It is altogether the most idiotic measure that we have ever seen relating to the currency question. No doubt Bill intended to be idiotic. He wouldn't vote for it himself if he thought it had ny chance of passing.

Naturally, therefore, our correspondent can't make sense out of Bill's celebrated panacea for the country. It was intended to be a good joke among congressmen in the first place, and in the second place he probably thinks the voters of the seventh Kentucky district are fools enough to read the jargon he has put in the shape of a bill and be deceived by it. What Bill means by his measure, if he neans anything at all, is that he wants the silver dollars to be equal in purchasing power by weight instead of by law. But his bill wouldn't change the present condition of affairs at all. certain number of grains of silver bullion are now as valuable as a gold dollar, and there is no need for any legalization of that fact. What the people desire and what they intend to bring about is to reduce the purchasing power of the gold dollar from $2, where it now stands, to $1, where it stood previous to the demonetization of silver. They are in favor of "parity," out they want "parity" to rest on honesty and justice, and they want some of the value that has been taken away from their corn, and cotton, and wheat by the robber dollar to be restored.

We advise our correspondent and his democratic friends to fight shy of Bill and his bills.

The New York World tells the story of The New York world reus the story of a young lady by the name of Miss Heity Dickey, who left her home at Scranton, Penn., a few days ago and started out on a trip of adventure. She decided to make the journey in masculine attire. Speaking of the sad results which followed The World goes on to say: "She came to New York the New York the had read of and World goes on to say: "She came to New York—the New York she had read of and dreamed of. This morning, after four days in the metropolis, she lies in a cot in Bellevue hospital, the fire of adventure chilled within her, penitent, disillusioned and homesick. Miss Dickey is twenty-seven years old. She has expressive blue eyes, a baby nose and a pink and white complexion. Even with her hair cut shor Miss Dickey looks very feminine."

One of the saddest spectacles in America today is the death-bed scene of F. Nicholas Crouch, the renowned author of "Kath-leen Mavourneen." At his home in Baltimore, surrounded by cheerless walls and the grim badges of poverty, the old man, oppressed by the burden of eighty-nine years, is patiently waiting for the end to come. The Boston Herald has this to say of the old musician and his celebrated song: "The song that has been sung the world over brought him just $55 in money. world over brought him just $25 in money, but it also brought him an undying fame. Still, fame is not specially nourishing in one's old age."

Our friend, the talented editor of Th Augusta Evening Herald, has a double-leaded editorial on "Rats and Provincial-ism." The title is somewhat startling, but as we read it is explained as follows: as we read it is explained as follows:

"Rats are, no doubt, very worthy and necessary institutions. They furnish employment for cats and terriers, and enable the wire traps to earn their board. But in Augusta they assume a more important role. They are brought out like wild beasts in the gladiatorial arena, and thus are butchered to make an Augusta holiday."

holiday."
The editor concludes as follows:
"These few words are written in charity—perhaps in sympathy, for there is after all a certain degree of interest in a rat race—but we are of the humble opinion that the city of Augusta has outgrown the era of this provincial species of amusement which ough to be relegated to Rabbit Hill or Sand Bar ferry."

The whole business was caused, as will be inferred from the above, by the public butchery of rats by the Augusta terriers Hamburg is famous for its chicken fights and many a noble rooster has crowed his last crow in that famous arena, but why, as our esteemed contemporary says in double-leaded type, should innocent rodents be butchered to make an Augusta holiday? Let no one cry "rats!" to Editor Bayne: he is their defender, and long may they live to gladden his garret!

MARENGO OR WATERLOOP

New York Evening Post: There are multiplying signs that the McKinley boom has touched its highest point. Joe Manley, who has been for many years in the "claiming" business, and knows just what it is worth, publishes a cold-blooded calculation in figures, in which he estimates that out of 375 delegates elected only 154 are for McKinley. The rest is not silence, but wind, and very noisy wind. The total membership of the national convention will be 308, and 455 votes will be necessary to secure a nomination.

Springfield Republican: Two more favorite sons have been jostled aside by the McKinley boom. Davis, of Minnesota, never had much of a chance any way, but Cullom, of Illinois, was supposed—with his resemblance to Lincoin in homeliness of figure—to be possessed of some genuineness as a favorite son. And vet Cullom has his resemblance to Lincoln in homeliness of figure-to be possessed of some genuineness as a favorite son. And yet Cullom has been crowded out in his home county and McKinley delegates will represent the Springfield district in the St. Louis convention. Pretty weak leves to the rush of the McKinley waters were put up by the bosses in some cases. But Quay will probably be able to hold Pennsylvania.

Nashville American: Mr. McKinley is the candidate of a large number of the free silver republicans, Governor Morton is put forward as representing the views of the "sound money" republicans, Mr. Reed is willing to get votes from either side and Mr. Allison is still posed as the compromise candidate, because his record during many years' service in the senate shows that he never takes a positive stand if it is possible to avoid doing so. New York Morning Journal: But the year is young. There are astute politicians who believe paradoxically that the greatest weakness of the McKiniey boom lies in its very strength-that is, that his managers have been in so great a hurry to work up enthusiasm for him that time enough still remains for the enthusiasm to fade away. That would be like putting the climax in the first act of the play. Many things may happen during the weeks which will intervene between the rosy present and the St. Louis convention. Benjandin Harrison may happen. History is not without record of statemen who

The news that Flem duBignon had declined to meet Judge Crisp at Griffin was the sensation in political circles yesterday.

THE TALK OF POLITICS.

Everybody was wondering what it meant Some of Mr. duBignon's friends did not conceal their disappointment at his decison. They had regarded the Griffin appoint ment as an excellent opportunity for him to give a formal start to his campaign and they are unable to see why he did not take advantage of the opportunity. They are inclined to believe that this is the first sten toward withdrawing from the contest. A middle Georgia man who is very close to Mr. duBignon gave voice to that idea last night. "I cannot explain it in any other way," said he. "It was just the right chance for him-an excellent opportunity to demonstrate to the neople of the state that he measures fully up to the senatoria standard and is able and ready to defend his views. If he is going to stay in the race; I fear he has injured his chances by failing to meet Judge Crisp at this time." He went on to argue that, failing to meet his opportunity when he would have been placed upon the same plane as Judge Crisp and Secretary Smith in the argument of the financial question, would hurt him whether he continued in the race or did not. If he retired, it would be charged that Secretary Smith crowded him out, while if he staid, it would be said that the secretary left him to bear the brunt of the Others talked in the same way. They regarded it as a step which could only be explained on the idea that Mr. duBignon had decided he would not be a candiate. Can that be the case?

The Savannah Press seems to be taking quite an interest in the second district fight, more than in any other now on foot. Some of the papers in the second district which advocate true demoratic doctrines are inclined to laugh at 日本 The Press for this, while it has nothing to say in favor ing to say in favor of running a gold standard man in the first district. The Press now seems to have discovered that Captain Hammond of Thomas ond, of Thomas, is fast beginning to realize that he is the choice of the demo cratic voters of the second district. If that is so it is a little bit peculiar that Captain Hammond does not announce his candidacy and furnish the gold standard people of the district with a candidate. As it is, their fighting is all in the air.

In the meantime the cause of bimetallish s in good hands. Not only is Judge Griggs making ringing speeches, but Colonel Jesse Walters is being heard from every "stump" where politics is talked. Just now that means every cross road in the second district, and it covers a big lot of territory at that. Everybody who comes up from the second some story to tell of the vigor of Jess Walters's campaign and the way he i pouring hot shot "I heard one of his speeches the other day," said an

Atlanta man, who these cuckoo organs which keep saying that the silver cause is dead in that district ought to go down there and see the sort of a reception his utterances get. In my opinion, the gentleman from Dougherty is something of a whale." Speaking of an idea of expression or the United States senatorship, The Jonesro Enterprise Says: "The indications are that all the coun ties of the state, with possibly a very few exceptions, will have a general primary on June 6th-the time that delegates are to be elected to the state convention—and that they will also provide for a primary expression on the United States senatorship. A vast majority of the democrats of Clayton county indorse this idea and the county executive committee would do well to act accordingly."

The Brunswick Times hails with delight the idea of the people expressing their views on the senatorship question, and

"All the harm that has come to the democratic party in Georgia has come from too much bossing—the effort of leaders to dictate and manipulate its ex-pression in behalf of candidates afraid of the people. It is now passing through a trial of that kind. Let the body of the democratic party speak its mind and choice at the open primaries and we will again have that old time enthusiasm that

The Elberton Star, speaking of the can-didacy of Hon. A. G. McCurry for the president of the senate, says of film: "His familiarity with parliamentary law, coupled with his ability as a lawyer and urbanity as a gentleman, will make him an im-portant factor in the contest. Whatever

The Columbus Ledger, speaking of rumors of change in the views of the people in their discussion of the financial question, snows exactly what the change is when it says:

"The statement is being generally made that there has been much change sentiment in Georgia during the past few weeks upon the money metal question, weeks upon the money metal question, in that silver is gaining more friends and supporters. The people are right where they have been all slong—in favor of true bimetallism, the according of the same treatment to both gold and silver, and the recognition of both as a money of final payment. There are not any advocates in the whole country of a single silver standard, but there are advocates of a single gold standard. The latter have thrown off their mask, and declare unreservedly for a single gold standard, a policy which is un-democratic because it is detrimental to the interests of the masses of the people, and which will contract the currency to the profit of the few. The tearing off of the mask is the change that has taken place."

"Tennessee is as strong as Georgia in its stand for the restoration of silver," said Mrs. Marie Louise Myrick, the brilliant editor and proprietor of The Americus mrs. Marie Louise Myrick, the brilliant editor and proprietor of The Americus Times-Recorder, who was in Atlanta for a few hours yesterday. Mrs. Myrick was on her way home after a visit of ten days with relatives in middle Tennessee. "It looks like Bob Taylor will be the nominee for governor and the democrats believe they are certain of success, though they know, of course, that they have a fight on their hands. The democrats of the state are almost a unit in their support of the true democratic doctrine of the restoration of silver. The organs controlled by the goldbugs have made opposition to the spiendid leadership of Senator Isham G. Harris and the other true democrats who are his lieutenants and coworkers. Why, to show the sentiment there let me tell you of an occurrence in one of the counties of middle Tennessee where I was staying. Under some call the democratic voters of one of the districts were called on to register and in registering to give expression to their views on the financial question. One hundred and twenty registered and every one—without a single exception—declared himself on the aliver side. You see the people are thinking. They are not golds to be

CHATTAHOOCHEE.

THE FIFTH COUNTY TO ACT CALLS A SENATORIAL PRIMARY

And Provides for Primary Expression on All Offices for June 6th-It Is the Will of the People.

Columbus, Ga., March 27 .- (Special.)-Chattahoochee county joins the list of those which call for a general primary and a vote for senator on the 6th of June.

The county democratic executive commistee which met yesterday adopted resolu tions providing for such a primary in accordance with the recommendation of the state committee and provided that the democrats of the county shall, at the sune time, express their choice for United States

There was very little opposition to the plan it was considered so eminently practical and fair to all concerned.

At that primary the delegates to the state convention and to the twenty-fourth district senatorial convention will be selected and the democrats will decide as to who shall be the nominee for representative in the general assembly and the nominees for representative.

The sentiment of the democrats of this section is practically unanimous in fav of this primary action and especially upon the expression concerning the senat The proposition to let the people have hand in saying by direct vote who shall he their senator is regarded as the best kind of democracy and as being the best possinominees for that high office.

BOUTELLE'S RAD BLUNDER

New York Mail and Express: Congress-man Boutelle must feel today very much like the defeated officer who paraphrased the victorious communication of Commodore Perry to General Harrison in the war of 1812: "We have met the enemy, and we are theirs." Seldom has a distinguishwe are theirs." Seldom has a distinguish-ed American, in time of peace, been so trampled upon and walked over as was the Maine statesman yesterday in his he-role but mistaken effort to kill the bill allowing former confederate soldiers to hold commissions in the army of the United States. His solitary but resounding United States. His solitary but resounding "No" on the recording of the vote echoes and re-echoed through the house of representatives in a vain search for sympathy or company, and finally died a violent death in The Congressional Record.

Philadelphia Record: It is something to have Boutelle admit that he is "standing upon nothing"—an attitude, by the way, in which he has become fairly expert by dist of practice—but it is not the corrected of practice—but it is not the corrected Record which has left him there; it is his way-back, piney woods partisanship and his utter incapacity to realize that the war has been over for a generation. These two benighted conditions are Boutelle's sole pedestal; and they fully explain his pitiable isolation in a house in which his party has such a preponderant majority. And now, having lifted himself into conspicuity on such an unsubstantial basis, he ought to climb down and subside.

New Orleans Picayune: This is a justice long delayed, and the prohibition which has been removed was a cruel wrong to has been removed was a cruel wrong to men who are just as true and faithful to union today as are those who boast most of their patriotism and lovalty. It is pleasing to know that the only vote opposition to the bill was given by Congressman Boutelle, of Maine. He is welcome to the satisfaction he can secure from the remembrance of having been the only man in the national house of representatives who opposed an act of undenlable justice and did violence to a sentiment of noble generosity which all his colleagues most heartly united to consummate and promote.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Nevertheless, Boutelle's days of war are over. Since he has found that a democratic president is willing to fight when it is necessary he has resolved to study war no more. Hence, perhaps, his opposition to the law to allow ex-confederates to serve in the army and navy. Such measure only puts the country in a bet-ter position for going to war, and so increases the chances of hostilities. Mr. Boutelle's conversion from jingoism was sudden and remarkable, but it seems to be sincere. Henceforth he is expected to rank as the friend of peace. Isoutelle the jingo is no more. New York World: Perhaps the most significant action yet taken by the present house of representatives was its passage of the confederate disabilities bill. When a house overwhelmingly republican passes a bill removing all restrictions from confederate veterans, and does it with only federate veterans, and does it with only one vote in the negative, it means that the republican party has finally and com-pletely abandoned the sectional issue.

A Florida View of It.

From The Jacksonville Times-Union Judge Crisp is a representative in congress. Congress will probably be in session when the first two joint discussions occur. Judge Crisp, in leaving his post will be paired with a republican, so that his absence will have no effect upon a party vote. The majority of the joint meetings will probably occur when gress is not in session, and Judge Crisp will lose no time from his work. But how about Hoke Smith? He is paid a salary for the discharge of certain duties. He cannot pair with any one, and his work lasts all the year. While he is absent from his post he will draw pay for neglecting his duties. A great deal has been said about absenteeism congress. Absenteelsm in the cabinet has become a worse evil. If members of the cabinet are so sure that people cannot take care of themselves without their advice on political questions, they shou resign. There is no such position known to the laws of the United States as paid lecturer on finance. Of course we do not mean to say that member of the cabinet, or other execttive officer, should never leave Washing ton. An occasional speech would not be objectionable, and as men are not ducks they would find no fault for an occasional duck hunt. There is good reason, however, to object to a member of the cabine abandoning his office without abandoning his pay, and giving his exclusive time to stump-speaking. If he were advocating democratic doctrine he would be removed for pernicious partisanship, but activi in defending Wall street is not deem pernicious by the present adminis

tive bureau was abolished. The petition was opposed by Mr. Brother-ton, who thought that there should be a eting of the board when it was to b ussed and requested that it rest until next regular meeting, but Mr. Stockdell insisted upon its being put to a vote and the motion was carried with but one dissenting voice, Mr. Brotherton's. The resolution, which is in the shape of a petition, is as follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., March 27, 1896.—To the Honorable Mayor and General Council—Gentlemen: We, your board of police commissioners, in session this 27th day of March, 1896, do petition your honorable body to create and pass such ordinance or ordinances as will authorize your hoard. inces as will authorize your board March, 1836, do petition your honorable body to create and pass such ordinance or ordinances as will authorize your board of commissioners to reorganize the detective force of the police department of this city. We further petition that you make the detectives' pay the same as it was in the year 1895. We further petition that you create a head of this department at a salary not to be less than now paid to captains of the police force."

This petition to the council practically takes the responsibility of the detective department from the shoulders of the board and places it upon the council, and it is quite probable that steps will be taken at an early day to re-establish the detective department. There has been much talk during the past few weeks regarding the appointment of one of the present captains to the head of the detective department, and this would probably have been done but for the reason that the board had no authority under the law to designate one of them for such a position. If one of the captains should be designated another would have to be appointed in his place and this cannot be done in this case. It cannot be said what the outcome of the matter will be but the council will have to wrestle with the matter and some lively developments may be expected when the subject comes up before that body.

The case of cruelty to a prisoner by Detectives Conn and Mehaffy in January and for which these men were indicted by the hast grand jury, came up rather unexpectedly, and quite a large contingent of witnesses for the defense and the negro were on hand to state what they knew of the case. The negro, Williams, testified that he was beaten in an inhuman manner on the 10th of January last, and that he was beaten in an inhuman manner on the Market was the was onlined to his home for some days from the fluries received. Several witnesses appeared and testified that he was confined to his home for some days from the fluries received. Several witnesses in proper shape last night, and he was requested to wait

THE PASSING THRONG.

Speaking of the work of the state dental board here this week, a professional man said yesterday: "Dentistry has unsargone a wonderful advance in the past ten or fifteen years. It has not been long since the dentist was only a skilled mechanic. Now he must be more. He is required to have a knowledge of dental surgery, and the truth is dentists are the best surgeons we have for the head and face. I know of a case which occurred a few years ago in Brunswick. A sailor had been terribly injured in the jaw. The bones were fractured. The doctors called in Dr. Atkinson, a dentist. He set the fracture, straightened out the teeth and put plaster cast in the man's mouth. Then he made a hole through the plaster and the injured man took his nourishment for two or three weeks through a quill inserted in the cast. When the plaster of parls was taken out the man had as good a lay as you would find anywhere and his teeth articulated all right. That was the only way to treat the man, and ever since Dr. Atkinson has been in demand when frac-tures of the jaw or head have occurred

A physician and some lawyers and busi ness men were chatting in the Kimball lobby a few nights ago. "You ought to go off and take a rest," said the physician to one of the lawyers in the party. "You are working too hard and should have recreation.'

"But I cannot go away," said the law-'That is stuff," replied the doctor. "I hear that every week from somebody. But I find that when they have to go, the banker, the manufacturer, the merchant, all of them can go and their business does not stop. So why cannot a lawyer shut his books and go off and forget his cases and the worry of them?"

"I will tell you why," said Judge Miller, Macon, who was one of the party. "I do not believe there is another professional or non-professional man who is situated just as the lawyer is. A banker can leave his affairs to some one and they can perhaps be managed just about as well. A nerchant can put his partner or confider tial man in charge, and while he may lose some trade and dollars personally, he can still leave his business. The same is true f nearly every other class of work except the law. A lawyer has the business of others to watch. It is not his own in-come and investments' which tie him to his office, but his clients have large inerests at stake and he must protect those. The lawyer's advice may be wanted at any hour. The business man cannot go and pick up another attorney and be served as he would be by his adviser of years, who is thoroughly familiar with all the details of his business. It is a great responsibility, for it is another's interests which the counsellor must look after, and that is why the lawyer cannot leave his office without feeling that he may cause a great sacrifice to one of his most inti-

SLATON COMES IN.

Announces That He Is a Candidate for the Legislature.

GOSSIP OF COUNTY POLITICS

Race for Sheriff Grows Interesting Captain A. J. West Says That He Is Not in the Field.

Local politics are still sizzing. The fifth, and probably the last, announcement for the democratic legislative nomination for this county is that of Mr John M. Slaton, whose card appears elsewhere in today's issue of The Constitution, Mr. Siaton formally enters the ring, and the list thus made up consists of Messrs. W. P. Hill, Clarence Knowles, T. B. Felder, Jr., W. H. Pattersen and John M. Slaton.

The announcement of Mr. Slaton will not be received with surprise as, for the past everal days, he has been generally mentioned in connection with the legislative race. Mr. Slaton is well known in Atlenta, being a member of the legal firm of Glenn, Slaton & Phillips. He was reared in Atlanta and went through the public schools of the city, graduating at the Boys' High school in 1880, and receiving a diploma afterwards from the University of Georgia. He is the son of Major W. F. Slaton, superintendent of the public

In authorizing the announcement of his candidacy, Mr. Slaton says: Yes, I am squarely in the race. If elected I will do the best I can to serve the interests of the people of the county. I have spent nearly all my life in Atlanta and believe that I can make an efficient representative; if I did not think so, I would not offer. And now that I have nced I am going to do my best to be

It was stated yesterday that Colonel A J. West would be in the field, but that ntleman has made no announcement and his candidacy is doubtful.

Colonel West has been strongly urged. His office was filled with callers and friend: yesterday, who came to consult with him in regard to the race. Many of his friends sed him to enter the field, but to these olonel West gave no reply.
"I have thought over the matter," he

SPRING TERM OPENS.

The Southern Shorthand and Business University.

UP IN THE GRAND BUILDING

Will Begin Its Spring Term Next Wednesday, April 1st-A Large Attendance Expected.

Beginning with next Wednesday, April 1st, and continuing for some time thereafter, a great many young men and women will enter the Southern Shorthand and Business university to prosecute one or more of the courses taught in its various departments. Those desiring to commence with the spring term should make application at once, as the school already has a larger number of pupils than ever before in its history and every day new desks are being supplied.

"Our $25 business course," said the managers, "has convinced the public of two things, first, that it is as good as the best course taught in any other business college in the state, which costs from $25 to $50, and second, that our $50 course cannot be given by other schools, because they have not the facilities. We have spent several thousand dollars in furnishing cur school and the arrangement of our course, while about $400 will buy the equipment of any of the other schools.

"We invite those interested to call and see for themselves."

A THREATENED STRIKE.

WAGES OF EAGLE AND PHENIX TO BE CUT.

An Indignation Meeting of the Weavers-A Committee To Call on the Officers with a Protest.

Columbus, Ga., March 27.—(Special.)—The Eagle and Phenix Manufacturing Comsany gave notice to their employes that the wages of the weavers of certain kinds of goods would be reduced, the reduction to take effect on April 6th, and in consequence an indignation meeting was held by the weavers in Phoenix City last night. The notice of the reduction was given out early in the afternoon and the announcement created considerable among some of the operatives. The matter subject of much discussion among the employes, especially those who will be effected by the reduction and when the hour for suspending work for the day ar-rived a general understanding was had that an indignation meeting would be held last might. Accordingly about a thousand people, mainly operatives, assembled at Summer-ville hall, the place for the meeting. Immediately after the doors were opened the hall was packed with the indignant opera-tives, their sympathizers and others. There was every evidence that the crowd was considerably wrought up and many loud denunciations of the proposed reduction and of some of the officers of the com-pany were heard. The meeting was not formally organize and at the suggestion of a rather agitated member of the crowd, it was decided to exclude all who were not weavers in the lepartment of the mill in which the reduction is to be made. Several self ap-pointed men assumed the task of canvassng the crowd and after a half hour's work the hall was cleared of all except those whose wages are to be cut. Not even the foremen of the weaving ms were allowed to remain.

Just why the idea of adopting the plan of secrecy was decided upon no one seemod able to explain, for there were many operatives other than weavers as well as weavers from the mills present, who were n hearty sympathy with them. The reduction amounts to about 10 per cent, it being three cents per cut. Between 600 and 700 weavers will be affected. The average weaver makes about $1.10 per day. The reduction is confined to mill No. 3, a similar reduction having previously been made in Nos. 1 and 2. The scale paid weavers heretofore was twenty-eight and thirty cents, the former price being paid for making the New Era grade and the latter for the Rescue grade. The re-duction places prices at twenty-five and twenty-seven cents, respectively, which correspond with the price paid by other mills in this city. The Eagle and Phenix have been paying three cents per cut more than the other mills of Clumbus.

Although the members of the me night were pledged not to divulge any of the proceedings, it was learned that the operatives would call at the office of the company tomorrow at noon and protes against the cut and that the meeting was adjourned to meet again next Friday night. A number of speeches were made there being at times dozens of excited men and women talking at the same time. It is believed that in the event the company adheres to its decision in the matter a strike will follow. The strike could not last long, however, as a majority of the operatives are without sufficient means to be idle for any length of time.

VETERANS TO

Convention of G. A. R. Posts of Georgia and South Carolina.

LARGE DELEGATION EXPECTED

First Session This Morning in the O. M. Mitchel Post Rooms on Alabama Street.

A grand encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic posts of Georgia and South Carolina will be held here today. There will be over one hundred delegates in attendance, and the first session will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the O. M. Mitchel post hall, on Alabama street. Mr. L. B. Nelson, department comman of the organization, will preside at the meeting, and Mr. J. P. Averill, assistant department commander, and Mr. O. Matti on, quarter master general, are among the prominent delegates who will attend. Much nterest is being shown in the election new officers for the ensuing year, which new officers for the ensuing year, which takes place during the convention.

The main point of discussion will be concerning the action of General Walker, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in issuing an order that members of the organization should not parade in uniform with confederate veterans in gray at the reunion in Richmond.

It is said that some of the delegates who will attend favor the action of General Walker, and that some do not, and this point will probably be the subject of some lively discussions.

Resolutions, it is said, severely criticising the action of General Walker will be introduced by a member of the O. M. Mitchel post, and that the veterans from Fitzgerald, with others, will fight the measures. Major Clem, of this city, has announced his intention of warmly advocating the passing of the resolutions, and some lively debates are likely to follow.

The hall has been beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the local veterans are preparing to give their comrades a royal welcome.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper ef-forts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts— rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, prompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you pur-chase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction

The team will reach Atlanta this morning on the 10 o'clock train, and after dinner at the Markham, where Hanlon will stop his men, they will go direct to Brisbine park, where they will get to work. At 4 o'clock the game will be started, and it is universally believed that the capacity of the park will be tested.

The park will be tested.

The park is now one of the prettiest in the south and can be reached within seven minutes by any street car line. The old fences have been torn down and a new one put up around the place. The grounds have been correfully attended and everything is in better shape for baseball than it has been for years. It is doubtful if there is a prettier ball park in the south now than Brisbine park.

It is understood that a Broad street commission firm which was quite a factor last fall in the foreign exchange market had received an order to forward $1,500,000 gold next week. This could not be confirmed, and it was thought that if the treasury department should make another call on the depository banks for a part of the money held by them on bond account, or if the premium for gold bars was again advanced, shipments of the metal would be prevented. Early Morning Gossip.

Dow, Jones & Co., New York. New York, March 27.-There is so the common this spring. March business has been very good. A closer arrangement between Hocking Valley and Flint and Pere Marquette is contemplated.

One of the largest sugar refiners in the trust says there is very good evidence that the Standard Oil people have made their turn on the buil side and are out. The profit was a very satisfactory one, most of their stock having been bought a little above par and sold around II5. Of course the Standard Oil people bought their stock after conferring with the Havemeyers, and they would not have bought unless they were satisfied that good news could be easily produced to advance the stock legitimately. Buying orders on a scale down are known to be in the market, and the turn from uncertainty or decline is expected to be sudden and sharp.

Delaware and Lackawanna has declared the regular dividend of 1% per cent, payable April 20th. Books close April 6th and reopen April 21st. common this spring. March business

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, March 27.—Our market has shown greater strength than the trade an-ticipated in the face of the disappointing advices from Liverpool and the large advices from Liverpool and the large amount of cotton coming into sight as compared with 1893, the year of the 6,750,000 bales crop. This strength has been due to the covering of two large lines of cotton that were sold on the decline of the past week and which seem to have been covered on the belief that the movement next week will be lighter than it has been this ed on the belief that the movement next week will be lighter than it has been this year. So far estimates of the interior movement range from 25,000 to 25,000 bales and the amount of cotton to come into sight from 94,000 to 95,000 bales. After the sharp upward movement of ten days ago the local trade is very nervous and is not disposed to look for any great decline in prices. According to the trade journals the auction sales of ginghams resulted in severe losses to the manufacturers, and the auction sales of ginghams resulted in severe losses to the manufacturers, and so far the result has not been to encourage dealers. Liverpool has been the principal seller in our market today. After remaining firm until the last half-hour the buyers suddenly withdrew and on a light liquidation the market closed quiet and steady. The new crop months have not been so well supported today, as the weather in the southwest has been more favorable to the plafting interest. There is no well defined outlook in the market. Traders are exceedingly nervous and change their positions quickly, being guided more by fear on either side than by well-formed judgment.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, March 27.—(Special.)—The market was active and lively today. The Liverpool cables were disappointing, and the market opened lower, May selling on the call at \( \frac{7}.56 \), but there was a manifest indisposition to sell, and in the forencon prices moved upward with little opposition until May touched 7.65. The rise was checked by figures showing that the movement for the week would be unexpectedly large, footing up about 100,000-bales or nearly double the movement for the corresponding weeks in 1894 and 1893. May receded to 7.59. A little after 2 o'clock the bulls made another rally, again forcing May to 7.65, but the advance did not hold, and the close was easy with 7.69 bid for May. We think that the short interest is entirely too skiftish to wait for any material advance, and as there can be no such advance unless based on the existence of a considerable short interest, we have about lost all faith in any advance at all. We think well of sales of any and all of the months upon every rally.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, March 27.—Cotton opened 1 to 4 points lower, but rallied and advanced, closing easy with sales of 184,000 bales.

Today's features—Price, McCormick & Co., bought heavily today, and their buying produced a rally after a lower opening. The early decline was due to disappointment at the small advance in Liverpool, together with large receipts at the ports, but the purchase of the above firm, covering of shorts, New Orleans buying and the strong statistical position offset the bearish influences. The speculation was more active. A Providence, R. I., dispatch said: "It is expected that in a day or two that some of the smaller mills will follow the example of the Ross cotton mills, at Olneyville, in reducing wages. The larger mills are confronted with the problem of either reducing wages, shortening time or shutting down. There is no profit in manufacturing print cloths when middling is 8c and cloths 2½c, the prevailing prices." The Sun's Cotton Review.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bulls Bought Wheat Early and Sold

Out Discouraged Later. Chicago, March 27,-The bulls bought wheat with confidence this morning and wheat with confidence this morning and sold it out discouraged before the close. Prices therefore were strong a portion of the time and weak another portion. The start was not a very promising one, the fine weather having impressed the trade as not exactly suitable for crop damage reports. Weakness was consequently the opening tone and values were inclined to droop for some time after the opening. About one hour after trading began shorts discovered that they had sold themselves into a doubtful position, and upon endeavoring to cover gave the market a lift. Then there was some investment buying which continued the upward movement. Incidental to the advance there was a report that England had issued important orders to army officers. When the enthusiasm attended upon the bulge had abated the course of the market was reversed, the entire gain being lost, the close showing positive weakness. May wheat opened from 63½ to 63½@63%c, sold between 63%@64 and 63c, holding at 63%c bid, %c under yesterday. Cash wheat was firm and %c higher, closing easy with the futures. sold it out discouraged before the close. firm and %c higher, closing easy with the futures.

Corn-The market for corn was in a lethargic state, trade being light and no news of importance in circulation. The course of prices was similar to that of wheat, the action being of a perfunctory sort. May corn opened at 29%c, advanced to 29%c, declined to and closed at 29%c, as shade under yesterday. Cash corn was firm and %6%c per bushel higher.

Oats were quiet, the trade being light and featureless. Opening prices were easy and lower, firmness following, but eventually weakness prevailing with the close at a decline from yesterday. Sympathy with wheat was clearly the leading office. Cash oats sold at an advance of 4c over yesterday, the supply being unequal to the demand. The nominal close was, however, easy.

Provisions-Offerings of product was not oppressive today, the result being that prices in this market were afforded an opportunity of reviving. The run of hogs

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Chicago, March 27.—The news that was received before the opening this morning created quite a bearish feeling among local traders and they were somewhat aggressive in their selling. The cables, were indifferent, the weather very favorable and the market on the Pacific coast was reported lower. Around 63'4c, however, there appeared to be good buying orders and offerings were well absorbed, the markets gaining strength and advancing on reported additional cash sales, aggregating for two days $60,000 bushels. Shorts were good buyers, being afraid of perhaps some concerted action on the part of elevator interests to enhanced values, using as a leverage the big cash sale. But the supply around 63'%c was large. Most of the demand seems to have been filled on the way up and prices gave way, the entire advance later being lost. Clearances are extremely light, less than 100,000 bushels, and foreign markets closed weak. It is undoubtedly had considerable to do with the break, causing a hesitancy on the part of the buyers, which the bears took advantage of. Trade is very much unnerved and appears more willing to go with the tide than fight an advance or a decline. The fact that we are "between seasons" now, with the possibility of so much happening before the 1st may curtail any radical move either way, and especially on the bear side. One thing is quite noticeable, and that is the shorts appear more nervous when the market is strong with an upward tendency than the bulls do when reverse is the case. However, we are inclined to the belief that there will not be a wide range of prices until after the opening of navigation.

The market for coarse grains was steady for corn but weak for oats. The fine prices until after the opening of naviga-tioa.

The market for coarse grains was steady for corn but weak for oats. The fine weather appears to be bearish influence in the latter market.

Provisions displayed more steadiness. Receipts of hogs were lighter than esti-mated and shorts were disposed to buy. The market was rather inactive on a whole.

Grain Notes.

Grain Notes.

Chicago, March 27.—The advance to 63% c seems to cut off all demand and brings out large offerings from holders.

Primary receipts: Wheat 386,000, against 260,000; shipments 186,000, against 264,000. Receipts of corn 254,000, against 197,000; shipments 88,000, against 64,000.

Provisions are firm on light hog receipts. There has been some selling of pork by Cudahy. The trade is moderate. Charters were made for 159,000 bushels of wheat late yesterday by Milmine Bodman. This is in addition to the 350,000 chartered and reported. Minneapolis will increase its wheat stocks 200,000 bushels. Duluth is expected to increase 750,000.

Northwest receipts 392, against 509 and Cables were not so strong as expected and caused a weak opening. Local scalpers were principal sellers. There appears to be good buying orders around 63c, think partly for foreign account. Springfield. III., wires: "Reputable farmers in this section report the appearance of the hessian fly in the growing wheat." The San Francisco market yesterday did not participate in the strength here at all. The market lost ½c, while wheat here advanced that much.

going to mix with them. The tree matures its fruit. What will love not do? There is a difference between love and duty. A sense of duty will make a man say I will do my part, but love will make a man say I will do my part, but love will make a man say I will do my best. A sense of duty will make a man say I will get off as easy as I can, but love will make him say I will do all I can.

"Peace is another fruit of the spirit. How the world needs peace. You can have it. God can hush every noise in your heart, still every storm in your breast and calm every fear of your soul.

"Joy is another fruit of the spirit. Religious joy will bring power. If these holiness folks had as much sense as you unholiness folks they would take the world. I won't slur at the holiness man. God bless him. I love to see joy. I hate to see a fellow pulling on a cold collar; he works from a sense of duty. Suppose I were to say to my wite, when I bid her goodby, it is my duty to kiss you, or when I went to buy her a dress I should say I am going to buy it from a sense of duty, what would she think of my love? The church is full of these sense of duty Christians."

Here Mr. Jones gave a ludicrous description of a prayer meeting atended by the sense of duty brethren, and said: "I had just as soon try to make a shade tree out of my walking strek as to make happy Christians out of that crowd.

"Another fruit of the spirit is long suffering. A fellow often bestiended."

of my walking stick as to make a shade tree out of my walking stick as to make happy Christians out of that crowd.

"Another fruit of the spirit is long suffering. A fellow often breaks down at the wrong time. If he had held out a little longer he would have won. How often I hear people say I have borne it just as long as I am going to; if they do it again you'll see the fur fly. That fellow needs long suffering. To lie down under fire is the hardest job a soldier ever had. The grandest heroines I have ever seen were those that lie the stillest under the fire of suffering and self-sacrifice.

"Another fruit of the spirit is gentleness. We know what we mean when we say a gentle horse but the word has no meaning when we apply it to a man. Every man we meet is a gentleman, no matter what sort of a fellow he is. A gentle horse is one that will stand without hitching, but Dr. Hopkins, you've got 500 members that won't stand hitched."

In the conclusion of his talk Mr. Jones dwelt on family preser.

Dr. Hopkins, you've got 500 members that won't stand hitched."

In the conclusion of his talk Mr. Jones dwelt on family prayer. He said: "Show me a pious man that don't have prayer in his family. You can't have family religion without family prayer.

"The Baptist cannot lose his religion, but we Methodists have to get a move on us. Some preachers preach falling from grace on Sunday and their members practice it all the week. You would not put up with a negro servant at your house forty-eight hours if he treated you as you treat God."

At the conclusion of the sermon Mr. Jones invited all those present who would pledge him to move up on family religion and erect family alters to come forward and give their hands. He included in the invitation women who are widows or whose husbands refuse to hold family prayer. It was a wonderful sight to see fathers, husbands, wives, mothers, pushing their way, through the crowded siles to take his hand. While the singing went on they crowded about the evangelist grasping his and whispering to him some solemn pledge and invoking his prayers that God would here there to determ the degree of their documents.

servant. This is from a fellow in middle Georgia who has got hold of things published about our meeting." Then Mr. Jones read the article.

The writer said, "There is one thing they haven't proved Sam Jones to be and that is a liar." Mr. Jones said: "If the things I have said on this platform were lies they would have rode me out of town before now. Many a fellow could sign this article. I notice that he says that since reading about our meetings here he can plow a new ground without cussing. If you cuss you ought to be kukluxed, and I wish that every one of those little fellows clerking in the stores that cuss would be run down in the basement and licked. If I was in hell I would want to be the most decent fellow down there."

Ar. Johns selected as his text, I John, 1, 9: "IT we confess our sins, God is faithful to forgive our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

"If we change the word confess to repent, it will help us to understand the text better. My duty is to repent. What is repentance? It is just what the alphabet is to the man of science and learning. He cannot understand anything without knowing the letters. Just so repentance is the alphabet of the sinner on his way to God. The first thing I did when I sought God was to repent, and I have been repenting ever since. Repentence is the first thing we get and the last thing we part with before we enter the pearly gates.

"The best definition I ever heard of repentence was given by a cotton-frocked sister in the country. She said, 'It is being so sorry. I have done wrong that I don't want to do it any more."

"Some say I can't quit sinning without religion. I can fix it so that no old toper will drink any more: Just put two ounces of strychnine in every glass of whisky you set before him and I will guarantee that he will never touch liquor again.

"Prohibition will prohibit if you will put the motive at the right point. If every business house and workshop in Atlanta will refuse to employ a man that drinks liquor, you will get a prohibition that will prohibit. It won't prohibit on charactep, but strike a fellow on pocket and stomach and he will quit. But you are not going to do it, you old red nose devil, because you drink yourself.

"Confession is the essence of reformation. When a man confesses to the bottom he reforms to the bottom."

Here Mr. Jones gave a striking illustration of genuine and spurious repentance.

"God is faithful to forgive us. If a man will repent and confess to the bottom he is in a place where God can forgive him. If you are ready to give up your sins you are where the Lord can get His hands on you.

"It is not a question of feeling, but one of surrender. When a man runs up the

and make you variant solders of the cross."

Mr. Jones then invited all who would surrender to God and accept Christ as the captain of their salvation to come to the front and shake his hand. In response to this proposition hundreds came forward weeping and saying, "Brother Jones, pray for us."

Atlanta Must Have the Magnificent Museum—The Appeal of Mrs. Brown.

There will be a huge mass meeting of the citizens of Atlanta at the Grand opera house next Wednesday evening, the 1st of April. The good ladies are determined to mak this meeting one of the most enthusiastic in the history of the city. The abbey is to be a magnificent museum

The abbey is to be a magnificent museum for the preservation of confederate relics, and will be erected at a cost of $20,000.

Mr. Charles Broadway Rouss, a prominent millionaire of New York, who was once a poor confederate soldier, has offered to donate one-half of this amount, with the understanding that the women of the south raise the balance.

The Daughters of the Confederacy have gone to work in earnest and declare that they will have every cent of this amount in the very near future. The local Daughters believe that Atlanta is the place of all others for this magnificent structure, and with the characteristic Atlanta spirit, they have gone to work determined not to cease until they have accomplished their purpose. The undertaking is a gigantic one and they expect the hearty co-operation of every citizen. General Gordon's Appeal.

General John B. Gordon has issued an appeal to southern women urging them to aid in raising the funds necessary to carry the plans of Mr. Rouss into successful execution. Mrs. John C. Brown, president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, ecution. Mrs. John C. Brown, president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, writes as follows on the movement:

"Shall this appeal be ignored? Women of the south, let us proye ourselves worthy of the appeal. Let us unite in a patriotic, earnest, systematic effort to promote this sacred cause. Let us show our devotion by making a contribution which shall far exceed the expectations of the veterans who have thus confidently appealed to us to vindicate the memory of their heroic struggle in the greatest civil war of history. Let us devote our thoughts and prayers to devising the plans and to performing the work which is needed to selze this favorable opportunity for securing the noble contribution which the Almighty has placed it in the heart of Mr. Rouss to offer, and which will afford the means to hand down to posterity in its true light the memory of our heroic fathers and husbands, and brothers and sons. If we work systematically and earnestly, as General Gordon suggests, 'In every city, town, hamlet and reighborhood of the south,' the result will astonish our friends, and will be in itself a monument to the devotion and the power of southern womanhood."

"LONDON ASSURANCE"

Local Amateurs Soon To Appear in Comedy at the Grand.

Mr. William Geppert is meeting with much success in the organization of the local theatrical company which will pre-sent "London Assurance" at the Grand in the near future. The casting of the play will be concluded Monday. The company will be about the same that produced "Young Mrs. Winthrop" a year two ago, and which scored such a decid-

Mrs. Ed Barnes, Miss Pauline Romare, Mr. Joe Johnson, Jr., and Mr. Walter Howard will take the leading roles. It is also probable that Judge Nash Broyles will lend his talent to the occasion. There are ten characters in the play, and the other participants will be announced next week.

The performance will be given for the benefit of the Copperfield Club, and this fact in itself bespeaks a crowded house. "London Assurance" is a delightful little comedy in five acts, in which a slight matrimonial mixture forms the basis of an interesting plot. Dion L. Boucleault is the author and the plece has enjoyed long runs in London, where the scene is laid, and in other large cities.

FOWLER SOLD HIS TIME.

A Lawyer and a Bailiff Both Bought a Trainman's Time. Cornelius Fowler is a negro who seems to know how to work slick games when he wants a little cash. He is a fireman on the Southern railroad. Recently Fowler went to James Harper, a balliff of Judge Bloodworth's court, and sold the bailiff his time on the Southern for a certain length of time for $10. The balliff was to get $15.80 for the queer loan, balliff was to get $15.89 for the queer loan, but when he went to the Southern's paymaster he found that there were several other claims ahead of his. He also found that Lawyer John Garner had a like claim on the Southern road through Fireman Fowler. At about the same time Fowler had sold his time on the Southern to the bailiff he also sold his time to the lawyer. Neither the balliff nor the lawyer could get anything, as there were other claims ahead.

At the close of the contest the victors with the new members will be served with an elegant supper, while the defeated side, sitting at the same table, will be served with cornbreal and water. Both committees are composed of hustlers and the contest will be lively.

WILL CLAIM HIS SALARY.

CAPTAIN J. M. WRIGHT WILL SUE THE CITY.

Will Ask for the Amount of His Salary Up to Next April-What the Ex-Chief Has To Say.

Captain J. M. Wright, after making nu merous fruitless efforts to regain his posi-tion as assistant chief of the Atlanta po-lice department, will soon enter suit against the city for the amount of his salary to April, 1897, had he held his of-

Captain Wright has engaged Colonel Glenn as his legal adviser and a hard fight will be made to compel the city to pay the salary. It will amount to about $2,500. It is a well-known fact that the friends of Cantain Wright are hard at work upon mayor is not in favor of any such move. It was on the suggestion made by the mayor in his last arnual message that the detective force was abclished and there is very dittle hope that he would take a fa-vorable view of the reinstatement of Cap-tain Wright. The effort at a compromise with the mayor which is now pending will, it is thought, follow in the footsteps of all of its predecessors of that kind.

The fact that Captain Wright has decided to enter suit for his salary shows that he has given up all hope of ever regaining the position of assistant chief of police and the fight has, therefore, been left en-tirely in the hands of his friends, who will do everything possible to bring peace and harmony between the mayor and Cap

The suit to be filed for Captain Wright will be based upon the claim that he was elected to the office of assistant chief of police for a term of two years beginning with the first of April last. He claims that although the city council had the right to abolish the office of chief of detectives, as was done, the office of chief of police was not abolished. And he further claims that in placing such a construction on the In-man ordinance the city attorney has erred, and that he is entitled to the salary which would have been paid to him had he con-chief of police.

Much interest was created in this case when the office of assistant chief of police was abolished and Mr. Wright thrown out of a position. The outcome of the suit will, therefore, be looked forward to with

A special meeting of the board of water commissioners was held yesterday afternoon in the council chamber.

President Hillyer, Mr. Erwin and Mr.
Torbett were present as were Superintendent Woodward and Secretary Brown. The neeting was called for the purpose of disposing of some of the old machinery con-nected with the old waterworks. Some of the pumping machinery, especially that at Poole's creek, is not needed by Atlanta and several purchasers have presented and several purchases have presented themselves for it. The board heard from two or three parties who were present who were bidders for the machinery, but nothing was done about the matter.

Superintendent Woodward made a statement to the board relative to the new main in which he showed the amount of work that had been done and the work that the now under way. Pinkertons Keeping Their Eyes on the

Charleston, S. C., March 27 .- (Special.)-The little filibuster Commodore is now in the dry dock in this city undergoing repairs, while a tall Pinkerton detective sit around close by and looks wise and says nothing. The confession of Edward Owen, the fireman that made the trip on the Commodore, will bring forth fruit to-day. The Pinkertons will help him in the proseculon and it is claimed that the vessel will be seized today on the charge of filibustering and also of making a false-report to the customs officials. Owen will also libel the vessel for damages.

It is understood that an investigation of Owens's statements is now being made and if these are found correct some criminal action will be instituted, notwithstanding Captain Morton's affidavit made to the customs officials that the vessel's cargo was thrown overboard to save the vessel from

THIS MAN HAD A NEW BATIO FOR COINING HIS MONEY.

Found the Value of an Old Confederate Bill and Put It Into Use-How His Plan Succeeded.

James C. McKever, of Hall county, wil be an interesting character before the Uni-ted States court next week, when he will be brought to trial for passing counterfeit money.

McKever is a rustic genius who knew the value of a confederate bill. He did not accept the decree that the money used by the southern states could no longer be passed as legal tender. He had several passed as legal tender. He had several bills which other people said were worth-less. But evidence will be brought out to show that he put them into use McKever had a one-dollar certificate. He was Herrmann enough by the use of a ten-dollar confederate bill and a little paste to transform the one-dollar note into $10 try produce was approached by him. He made a purchase, it is said, and tendered his doctored bill in payment. It was accepted without hesitation and the woman was reaching for the change when she noticed that instead of $10 she was hold-ing only $1. County Board of Education To Elect a School Commissioner.

JUDGE POOLE MAY GET IT

Work on the New Road to Haneville Has Been Begun and Will Soon Be Finished.

This morning the county school beard of education will elect a commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge The meeting will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the office of the commisner and in addition to the election of the commissioner the routine work will be taken up and some matters of importance will be transacted.

For the position of commissioner there are said to be more than forty candidates, but it is generally inderstood that the mantle of the late Judge Fain will fall upon the shoulders of Judge Adam Poole, who, until a short time ago, was a member of the county board of education. Early this week Judge Poole placed his resignation as a member of the board in the hands of the grand jury, asking that immediate action be taken, as he was a candidate for the position of commissioner.

Among other names which have been presented is that of Professor E. G. Moore, who for several years was principal of he Ivy street school, and later on had a milar position in the Fair street school. rofessor Moore is ably fitted for the po-stition and no doubt would give general satisfaction were he to be elected.

The name of Major R. J. Guinn, assistant state school commissioner, has been urged and many of his friends have imporurged and many of his friends have impor-tuned him to make the race. Professor Guinn is now holding a position in the edu-cational world which is much more lucra-tive than the position of county school commissioner and it is hardly probable that he will consent that his name be placed before the board.

The friends of Professor J. Colton Lynes for more than twenty years and is peculiarly fitted for the position. Professor Lynes himself has announced as a candidate for the position.

Judge Adam Poole, whose election to the sition of county school commissioner said to be an assured fact, is at present nnected with the postoffice at Southbend in the southern part of the county, and has been a member of the county board of education for many years, durboard of education for many years, dur-ing which time he has been enabled to befamiliar with the duties of his office lie has been actively engaged in his work and has made an enviable record which, no doubt, has been of great service to him in the race which he has made for

The work on this road is probably the best which has ever been done by the county. The thoroughfare has been perfectly graded and the curves brought to the correct degrees. The chert paving has been laid in a substantial manner and is said to be lasting.

The damages on Hemphill avenue which were a result of washes have all been repaired and the street has been placed in the best of condition.

Work on the new Peachtree creek bridge on Peachtree road will be begun just as soon as the advertisements, which must run thirty days, have expired. ### COMMISSIONER GLENN.

He Talks on Educational Issues of the State.

State School Commissioner Glenn is making a lively fight for the educational issues of the state, and in an interview held re-cently he said:

ing a lively fight for the educational issues of the state, and in an interview held recently he said:

"I am ascertaining what the people of Georgia think about their children. People show in more ways than one what they think of the children. I have traveled a good deal in Georgia recently, and I hear of a great many instructions of one kind and another that the people will give those selected to represent them in the next legislature. I am doing what I can to have the people give their representatives some special instructions as to needed legislation in favor of a better public school system. Do you remember that editorial that The Constitution a few weeks ago, headed 'A Wrecked Life? Some words in that editorial have been ringing in my head ever since I read it. It was in connection with the case of Gip South, and the editor said: 'Wise legislators could enact laws to punish him, but not to reform him. The legislature could appropriate money to make him a criminal, but not to make him free or build him up. His downfall could be accelerated by state aid, but it could not be checked by state aid. When will the legislature of Georgia learn that money spent to reform a boy is better than money spent to reform a boy is better than money spent to reform a boy is better than money spent to reform a boy is better than money spent to reform a boy is better than money spent to make a criminal of a boy? In the election of legislators to be held next October the good people of every county should make the candidates speak out on this question."

"I have taken that editorial as the text of my speeches in a good many places in Georgia recently. I am trying to make our people see that there is more economy and more safety in building schoolhouses than in building jails:

"If we made better provision for the education and training of our children; if we provided a school fund sufficient to secure capable and thorough teachers for leading our children, so many of these children would not slip through our fingers and go dow wherever I have opportunity to do so. You know under our law the grand jury elects the county board of education, and the county board of education elects the school commissioner and the teachers. No local tax for school purposes can be levide except upon the recommendation of two successive grand juries; so that the schools of the counties and the children are practically in the hands of the grand juries. Whenever a boy in the county becomes a criminal he must be indicted by the grand jury before he is brought to trial. Now you can see what grave responsibility is on the grand juries in connection with the schools of the county. If the grand jury fails to do what lies within its power to provide adequate school facilities for the children, and those children grow up in ignorance and vice and are arraigned before the grand juries themselves responsible?

There is another thought in connection with our system of public education. I believe that the law ought to require some form of manual training to be engrafted upon our public schools. Wherever this manual training has been introduced into the public schools of the states of the union the results have been most satisfactory in every respect. Most of our children must live by the labor of their hands. To give purely a literary education without some practical application of its uses, or to train a boy's head, as we say, without training his hands, or developed by Georgia boys, and I believe that our public school system should have engrafted upon it a system of training that will open the way for material developed ment—a material prosperity the like of which none of us have dreamed of."

"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

"Charley's Aunt" drew a very good audience to the Grand last night and every-body seemed to be well pleased with the old lady. It was but natural that they should be for the play is in excellent hands and was given a splendid production in every detail.

"Charley's Aunt" is styled a farcia comedy and it is rightly named. But dif-ferent from many farcial comedes the fun is clean and wholesome. At no time does it descend the least bit to coarseness and from the time the bogus aunt appears "from Brazil, where the nuts come from." "from Brazil, where the nuts come from," until she confesses her identity, the audience was convulsed with laughter. Most everybody is familiar with the story of how college students invited young lades to dine with them, expecting that Charley's aunt would arrive in time to act as chaperon. The aunt fails to come in time and one of their chums is persuaded to impersonate the aunt.

Then the fun begins. There are many udicrous situations which bring unl.m fun. The entire company is good and the play The entire company is good and the play moves along very smoothly. Arthur Larkin, as the young student who impersonates the aunt, does a most excellent bit of acting and makes a most charming old lady. Addson Pitt as Charley and Raymond Capp as Jack, his chum, between whom and Larkin the burden of the work falls, are clever, and so in fact is every member of the cast. "Charley's Aunt" will be given at matinees at 2:30 this afternoon. The engagement concludes with the performance to

"Sam'l of Posen."

Those who enjoy the intense realism of the French style of drama transfused into a serio-comic specialty play for the American consumption have it at its very best in "Sam"l of Posen," which will be presented here with M. B. Curtis and supported by Albena de Mer, at the Lyceum theater Wednesday and Thursday.

As to Mr. Curtis h mself, Sam'l, the chief personage of the drama he is not the Jews. As to Mr. Curtis h mself, Sam'l, the chief personage of the drama, he is not the Jew that Shakespeare drew by any means, nor is he even a distant relative to Dickens's Fagin. He is a good natured, lively Polish Hebrew whose better qualities of head and heart are healthly developed by the free social and commercial intercourse he finds in the United States.

Scott in "Richelieu."

Mr. Scott Thornton, who, with his special company, is to present "Richelleu" Monday night, was seen by a reporter yesterday and asked about the progress of his undertaking. Said he, "You newspaper ellows may go on and have all the fun you want. I am saying nothing but sawing wood by the cord. My company is up to wood by the cord. My company is up to date in every respect, and you will see work that night that will astonish you. My leading lady is a 'regular beaut,' and my people are just live enough not to let anything put them out. If any one in the audience thinks they are going to have a better time than we, they will be sadly mistaken. I've handled Atlanta audiences before, and I know pretty much how to treat them. Those who come for good acting and appreciate good work will see it. Those who think they can see fun in the grand tragedy of 'Richelieu' are welcome. Of course, I had rather have the first class, but I have learned by experience that beds of rosse also conceal thorns, and 'non palma sine pulvere.'" palma sine pulvere.'''
With a tragic sweep of the hand the actor bowed himself away and disappeared up

WILL TAKE A REST

Ill Health Causes Judge Reid To Leave the Bench Temporarily.

TO BE ABSENT SEVERAL WEEKS

While He Is Recuperating the First Division of the Court Will Be Conducted by Judge John Berry.

On account of failing health, Judge Harry M. Reid, of the first division of the city court, will be absent from the city for several weeks, which he contemplates spending at some health resort.

The announcement was made yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the bar and caused genuine solicitude among the lawyers who were present. Judge Reld has not been well for quite awhile, and though he does not anticipate anything serious he has decided upon the advice of his physician to take a few weeks' rest and in the meantime visit a health resort, where he can receive both medical atten-tion and relaxation from his arduous duties as judge.

Since his appointment to the bench,
Judge Reid has been very actively at work, and it is probable that to the wear and tear of the position his condition can be attributed more than to anything else.

At first Judge Reid determined to contin-ue his duties on the bench, but his physicians have advised him to take a needed rest and get away from the tedious and trying work of the courtroom, where he would be enabled to secure quiet and recreation as well as the best of medical said Judge Reid yesterday, "I have thought

I believe that with a few weeks off, with proper care, prudence and rest, I will be thoroughly recuperated and will be restored to my usual health."

With the completion of his work in the court today Judge Reid will not be on the bench of the city court for several weeks. In his absence Judge John Berry, of the city criminal court, will direct the first division of the court.

The first division of the court will take a recess until April 13th, when Judge Berry will be on the bench until Judge Reighall return. shall go, but I have been considering Hot

Next week Judge Berry will be in the criminal court and will wind up all the cases in the second division, and will then be prepared to attend to the business in the rst division of the court. Judge Reid has not stated the date that be will leave, but he now thinks it will be the early part of next week or the middle, at any rate not later than Thursday. His many friends hope that he will be completely restored to health during his absence, and their best wishes for a speedy recovery will go with him.

IT WILL BE WARMER.

Today. The weather chart of last evening showed that the barometric pressure gradually di-minished from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi river and from the Mississippi westward to the Rockies diminished rapidly until a storm of considerable depth and energy was formed along the eastern slope, with its center over the Dakotas. During the day there had been very little precipitation except along or near the Missouri river and in the extreme northwest-ern states. At 7:40 o'clock p. m. (eastern time) the temperature was quite high throughout the entire country except the throughout the entire country except the lake regions and northeastern districts. At Chicago the mercury was registering 38 degrees and at New York 30 degrees. More or less cloudiness prevailed in all sections except the Ohio valley, middle and north Atlantic states.

Washington forecast for Georgia—Partly cloudy; slightly warmer.

The Capital City Guards has not as yet elected a captain to fill the place of Captain E. W. Hewitt, who died last Sunday This position requires a man of great abil-ity, and it has been considered best by the members of the company not to act too hastily.

The election will not occur before three weeks. Although no definite action has weeks. Although no definite action has as yet been taken, it is pretty certain that Lieutenant W. J. Parks will be unanimously chosen for the captaincy. What will become of the collection of exposition buildings? ternational Exposition Company from the Piedmont Exposition Company, which controls the grounds, expires in a day or two and as yet nothing definite has been done with regard to the dispostion of the build-ngs.

According to contract the lease exp!res on April 1st, and unless extension of time is made by the old company the buildings will have to be removed by that date. Trustee George Parrott, with whom rests the authority to dispose of the big structures in which the great show was given, is now at Hot Springs. He is expected back in a day or two and will probably make some decision immediately upon his

All of the buildings have been offered for sale except the transportation hall and the auditorium. These were put up on the sites where the old main building and the grand stand stood, and according to contract revert to the Piedmont company. All other buildings of the great fair, ex-cept the government building, have been put up for sale by the exposition company.

Reserved for Nashville. It is said the long delay of Uncle Sam in getting the government building off his hands is due to the action of the directors of the Nashville, Tenn., Centennial Com-pany, who made formal application to the government board to have the structure moved to Nashville.

The question was taken up by the gov ernment board and the directors were in ormed that it would require a special act of congress to deliver the building to them.
The directors, it is said, have prevailed upon the treasury department, which now has control of the building, to stay the sale until action could be taken by congress. It is, therefore, probable that the government building will remain on the grounds for some time.

What of the Report? The report of the special committee ap-pointed by the city council to look into the advisability of purchasing Piedmont Park has not been made yet.

This report was determined upon, however, several weeks ago and is emphaticalever, several weeks ago and is emphatically adverse to the purchase. Before the report can be made the option held by the city to purchase the park for $165,000 will expire. According to act of legislature the city was given the privilege of buying the park for the sum of $165,000 payable in yearly installments. This option extends until April 1st. A special committee was appointed by the general council to look into the matter, with Mr. Dimmock chairman. Numerous petitions presented to council against purchase rather decided the report of the committee.

Upon the expiration of the option the old Piedmont company will order the gates of the grounds to be closed. Admittance will be refused to alf. It is proposed by the largest stockholders to sell off a part of the property for the purpose of paying the remaining bonded indebtedness, which is now very small. When this is done the grounds will be fenced in and held for speculative purposes.

grounds will be fenced in and field for speculative purposes.

In the meantime the question comes as to what will become of the buildings. Trustee Parrott has been working hard in this direction and will probably announce some decision upon his return.
